AN EAR COCKED FOR FOOTNAPPERS . . .

There's always a lot of talk Friday The Thirteenth about rabbit's feet. A fellow has to keep his ear cocked for such scurrious chatter and amputate it at once. Thumper, a white rabbit who is a pet of the Hoskins family, Cedar Avenue, Kelowna, feels his fur stand on end at the thought of losing one of his feet to such an unlucky cause. However, Thumper need have no fear. He has been assured by all members of the household that Friday the Thirteenth or not, he will never become pot material.

New Mayor of Vancouver Will 'Rock Police Boat'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Tom Campbell walked out of a Vancouver police commission meeting Thursday when he was refused a copy of a controversial police report covering alleged criminal activities by members of the police department.

The report was made in June, 1965, by Vancouver lawyer George Murray at the request of former mayor William Rathie. It followed a $1,200,000 money robbery at a downtown warehouse and a string of bank robberies in which police officers were believed to have been involved.

One constable thought to have been involved in the criminal activities, Leonard Hogue, died in an apparent murder-suicide that also claimed the lives of his wife and six children.

Mayor Campbell's action Thursday were the latest development in his 18-month fight to have Mr. Murray's report released to the public.

As an alderman on city council last year, he urged Mayor Rathie and Attorney-General Bonner to make the report a part of the public record.

One of the features of Mayor Campbell's drive to unseat Mr. Rathie in civic elections last month was that he would "release the report to the press."

Mr. Murray urged him not to, and claimed the report could be damaging to police force morale and possibly libelous to some members of the force. The lawyer said he did not prepare the report for public consumption.

When Mr. Campbell left the police commission meeting, he said he couldn't continue as chairman if information was being kept from him. The refusal to provide the mayor with a copy of the report came from commissioners David R. Blair, John I. Bird and J. W. Hudson, all appointed by Attorney-General Bonner.

"Who's running this city, the mayor and council or the attorney-general?" Mayor Campbell asked.

"They are afraid I might rock the boat. Now I'm going to do it."

"This is an insult to the mayor and council and to the citizens of Vancouver."

Legion Opposes German Vets Marking Dieppe Anniversary

TORONTO (CP)—A Royal Canadian Legion official said Thursday night participation by German veterans in ceremonies marking the 25th anniversary of the battle of Dieppe "would be like dancing with your killers."

Harry Lister, president of the Legion's General Wingate Branch here, was commenting on a report in The Globe and Mail that the Germans want to join in paying tribute to the memory of Canadians who died in the 1942 landing on the French coast.

The Globe and Mail story, by Alan Harvey, quoted a French informant as saying the German request is being considered by the French ministry of the interior. The story said the Paris decision will probably hinge on Canadian approval.

"I would not want anything to do with ceremonies that included the German troops who were at Dieppe," Mr. Lister said. "Governments seem willing to consort with former enemies, but the men who fought there can't think that way."

"I think it would be terribly out of place. The idea is almost humorous."

Sandy Shuterian, a Toronto cab driver who is organizing a reunion this summer of Canadians who were captured at Dieppe, said the German request "comes as quite a blow to me."

"I don't think the men will like that and I can speak for most of them. These ceremonies are to honor our dead, that they killed."

Expansion Of Grand Coulee Will Bring Back World Title

WASHINGTON (CP)—A new expansion of the Grand Coulee Dam in Washington State was announced Friday by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said the estimated $300-million cost will return to Grand Coulee the title now held in the Soviet Union of the world's largest dam.

The proposed new generators will have a capacity of 600,000 kilowatts, which will be the world's largest. Twelve are planned, the last going in next year.

The Grand Coulee hydroelectric project, which cost $224 million to build, was completed in 1938. It was the only area of South Vietnam in which the ground fighting was extremely dangerous.

MP's Charge Unwarranted, Says Company

WINNIPEG (CP)—An MP's accusation that Hudson's Bay Co. northern staff have been guilty of tampering with the mails and altering cheques apparently is based on a single incident "long since resolved," the company said today.

A company spokesman issued a statement deploring what was described as a morale-damaging smear of HBC personnel, calling the charge by MP Frank Howard "unwarranted, unfair and senselessly derogatory."

Mr. Howard, New Democratic Party member for Skeena, said in the Commons Thursday that the HBC has "engaged in criminal activity" by tampering with the mails and altering cheques. He said he has documentary evidence to prove his allegations.

The HBC reply said Mr. Howard appears to have based his charges on a single incident at Fort Chippewyan, Alta., in November, 1965, which has long since been resolved to the satisfaction of both the post office and the complainant.

The statement said: "The company operates 71 branch post offices in isolated stores as a public service. It would be surprising if in these communities, where many recipients of mail can neither speak English nor read and write, occasional mistakes did not happen."

"Nevertheless, any complaint received by the company with respect to post office service has always been quickly settled to the satisfaction of post office authorities."

No Welcome For Neo-Nazi

OTTAWA (CP)—Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and the Canadian Labor Congress Friday added their voices to protests over the scheduled Canadian television appearance of a German neo-Nazi.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons the CBC shows "an inexcusable disregard of Canadian sensibilities" with its invitation to Adolf von Thadden to appear on the program, "Sunday."

Meanwhile Claude Jodoin, the CLC president, sent a telegram to Prime Minister Pearson protesting von Thadden's admission to Canada. The visit by "this supporter of Nazi policies" will serve no constructive purpose, he said.

The telegram added: "Providing him with a platform through a CBC appearance is facilitating the spread of undemocratic doctrines and reviving animosities."

Dorion Crash 'Accidental'

DORION, Que. (CP)—A five-man coroner's jury is to present recommendations today following its finding that an Oct. 7 school bus-train collision that claimed 20 lives was accidental.

A hushed crowd of 200 spectators, witnesses, lawyers, policemen, reporters and photographers heard Jury Foreman Paul Carrier read the verdict Thursday night after the jury had been out for two hours and 15 minutes.

The whir of TV cameras and the pop of flash-bulbs punctuated his statement that the jury had unanimously found the collision "not of criminal origin but accidental."

Mr. Carrier said that in the opinion of the jury it seemed there was negligence. Following testimony given principally by the operators and employees of the CNR, it had been demonstrated beyond any doubt that the level crossing concerned was extremely dangerous.

SOME PEOPLE JUST DON'T CARE EVEN IF IT IS FRIDAY 13TH . . .

CHICAGO (AP)—Retired police sergeant Marshall Pidgeon is celebrating Friday the 13th by attaching his new license, AV 1300, and his new city vehicle sticker, 1313, to his auto. He already has Illinois Police Association decal number 1313.

In 1928, Pidgeon startled police officials by accepting star 13. He was the first in 16 years to accept the number. He wore No. 13 until 1935 when he was promoted to sergeant. He had to exchange badges and the best he could do was No. 213.

Pidgeon retired from the police force in 1961 and now is employed as a deputy for the chief of the circuit court.

He spends most of his working hours at the civic centre on the 13th floor.

WINONA, Minn. (AP)—They're not bashful about Friday the 13th at the Harv Bauer Sr. household.

It's a day for birthdays and head counting.

Mrs. Bauer is one of 13 children, and Mrs. Bauer has 13 grandchildren.

Mrs. Bauer's oldest daughter was born Friday the 13th and she recently presented the Bauers with grandchild No. 13.

A son, John, serving with the navy, also celebrates his birthday today.

Violence Looms In China's Capital

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese correspondent reported from Peking today that Chinese workers, including both supporters and opponents of Mao Tse-tung, are pouring into the capital, raising the possibility of violence there.

A correspondent for the newspaper Yomiuri telephoned his paper that more than 1,000,000 workers already had arrived in Peking and more are coming in daily.

"The situation in Peking is fluid and the centre of the storm appears to have shifted from the militant Red Guards to these workers," he said.

"It is certain that the situation in Peking required Mao's return. There is a possibility that the violence which hit Shanghai and other cities will spread to Peking and other cities throughout mainland China."

Japanese newspaper men reported that wall posters in Peking said Mao has returned to Peking to take personal command in his struggle against the faction headed by President Liu Shao-chi.

Three Killed In Air Crash

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP)—A Canadian National Railways construction crew Friday found three men dead and a fourth injured in the wreckage of a plane on a northwest Ontario spur line.

The Cessna 180 aircraft, had been reported overdue Thursday on a 175-mile flight from Wabigoon Lake to Winnipeg.

Police identified the dead as pilot Emmett C. Hopfer, 43, of St. James; Gary Klesen of Charlewood, and Nelson Cloutier of Transcona, all communities in Greater Winnipeg.

Lloyd Holstad of Winnipeg was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital with broken ribs and frostbite.

PEKING (AFP)—A number of Chinese army officers—regarded as supporters of the "reactionary bourgeois line"—have been arrested and publicly paraded through the streets with their heads bowed, reliable sources said here today.

These reports, coupled with the official reshuffle of the committee set up to conduct the cultural revolution within the army, proves that the army, far from being monolithic, is seriously divided at the top.

Fire Lights Up New York Sky

NEW YORK (AP)—A 10-alarm fire punctuated by gas explosions roared through an eight-block residential area of Jamaica, Queens, today, destroying 20 homes and lighting the pre-dawn sky with brilliant yellow and orange flames for miles around.

Typical Kelowna Ratepayer May Face Extra $30 Charge

A typical Kelowna ratepayer could pay $30 more in local taxes this year to meet increasing school costs.

A four- or five-mill increase to meet rising school costs is inevitable this year, Fred Macklin, secretary-treasurer of School District 23 (Kelowna) said Thursday night in his year-end report to the school board.

Based on last year's mill, this would mean a $5 tax increase for every $1,000 of taxable assessment.

A $14,000 to $16,000 Kelowna homeowner would have a taxable assessment of $6,000 (100 percent on land; 75 per cent on improvements).

The increase will take place "regardless of the economies we are endeavoring to make," Mr. Macklin said.

School expenditures for 1967 will be "considerably higher than 1966," Mr. Macklin said.

He attributed the higher costs to pupil and teacher increases, and increases in custodial and maintenance staff.

The school district now has $9,000,000 worth of buildings, grounds and equipment to maintain and operate.

Mr. Macklin said the district's payroll this year will be in excess of $2,850,000.

The pupil population increased by 600 during 1966 and a similar increase is expected in September.

The only way to avoid a four- or five-mill increase would be through government intervention, similar to the aid given last year.

No Ottawa Aid Expected

Last year school costs increased two mills and would have gone higher—to five mills, perhaps—had the government not intervened.

The possibility of government aid this year is extremely doubtful, Mr. Macklin said.

In his 10th annual report to the board, the secretary-treasurer said the building program broke all records in 1966.

There were 15 building projects, valued at $2,633,000, completed, plus equipment and grounds' project totalling $363,000.

Of the total $3,000,000 spent on capital in 1966, $540,000 was contributed by the federal government and the provincial government will be sharing 75 per cent of repayment and interest costs on the balance.

Almost all the district's urgently needed projects received government approval before a tight money and government controls on spending came into effect, Mr. Macklin said.

The 1966 budget went into the red. The over-expenditure resulted from the hiring of more teachers than were budgeted, increased insurance costs on new buildings, movement of portable classrooms, and payments for retirement, he said.

Probable Bahamian Ruler Reports Threat On Life

NASSAU (AP)—Lyndon Pindling, who may form the next Bahamian government, today reported a threat on his life.

Pindling told a reporter his wife received Thursday an anonymous telephone message which said: "Have you selected the coffin yet? He will be dead by midnight."

The 36-year-old London-educated political leader said he did not take the call seriously but his wife was disturbed. Police were assigned to guard his home.

Pindling awaited an appointment with the British governor, Sir Ralph Grey, in seeking permission to try to form a government. Before the election Tuesday, Grey said he thought the United States would be concerned about a Pindling victory.

MAKES STATEMENT
In a statement, the governor in the British colony said:

"The U.S. defence department is extremely interested in the outcome of the election. After all, they have three missile tracking stations on Grand Bahama, Eleuthera and San Salvador islands and an underwater base at Andros, and they want to be sure this place is going to stay stable."

"I think they are also frightened that if the Progressive Liberal party won, Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro could eventually use this as a beachhead."

Pindling is the Negro head of LYNDON PINDLING . . . got a coffin?

the Progressive Liberal party, which made unexpected gains in the election.

With the Progressive Liberal and United Bahamian Party each holding 18 seats and the 38-seat House of Assembly deadlocked, Pindling was told by Grey Thursday to report back if he could show support for a government. Pindling now claims such support.

If a government cannot be formed, new elections must be called.

Error In Firing Data Fatal To Eight U.S. Infantrymen

SAIGON (AP)—Supporting artillery fire hit a unit of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division by mistake today, killing eight American soldiers and wounding 54, an American spokesman reported.

A spokesman said the unit was a company of the division's 3rd Brigade taking part in Operation Cedar Falls in the Iron Triangle about 30 miles north of Saigon.

"Preliminary investigation indicates error in plotting the firing data," the spokesman said.

A report from the field said 16 rounds of 155-millimetre howitzer fire fell on the company. The last incident reported involved casualties caused by supporting artillery or bombing occurred Dec. 10 in a U.S. marine area just south of the demilitarized zone, dividing North and South Vietnam. A marine plane dropped ordnance that killed 16 Marines and wounded 11 others.

Officer's Unification View Might Affect Promotion Hopes

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Forces headquarters has issued orders which indicate that an officer's views on service unification may play a part in his appointments and promotions.

Confidential reports are made annually on each officer in the services by a superior officer. This has long been a standard practice, as in the business world.

These "performance evaluation reports" are written on a standard form known as CF255.

Last September an order went out from headquarters amending CF255. Part of this order reads:

"You will appreciate the need to assess the tri-service potential of all officers. Accordingly a sub-para C has been added to para 18 entitled employment suitability for employment outside the services."

EDMONTON (CP)—Delegates to the Alberta Federation of Agriculture's convention said Thursday little progress has been made toward greater unity in the highest body of provincial farm organizations. The delegates approved a resolution urging further discussions between AFA officials and representatives of such organizations as the Farmers' Union of Alberta and the Co-Operative Development Association.

ASSISTANCE ASKED

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta Agriculture Minister Harry Strom said Thursday the federal government should extend the same assistance to Peace River area farmers that it has to drought-stricken farmers in Quebec. Mr. Strom told delegates to the Alberta Federation of Agriculture's convention the federal government is paying Quebec farmers $600,000 in assistance despite Agriculture Minister Green's statement last year that no more assistance would be granted and should extend the same rights to farmers in other provinces.

GAS PLANT PLANNED

CALGARY (CP)—Pan American Petroleum Corp. Thursday announced plans for a multi-million dollar gas and sulphur plant near Fox Creek, Alta., 175 miles northwest of Edmonton, in the vicinity of the Bigstone gas field. Exact cost of the project was not disclosed, but company officials said the plant will produce 320 tons of sulphur and 30,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day.

Bonn Seeks Closer Ties In Visit With De Gaulle

PARIS (AP) — Kurt Georg Kiesinger, an advocate of closer relations between France and West Germany, arrived in Paris today for his first visit as West German chancellor to President Charles de Gaulle.

Favreau Starts Withdrawal From Federal Political Scene

OTTAWA (CP) — Guy Favreau, still not in top health, has begun a withdrawal from federal politics by resigning as the federal Liberal party's Quebec leader.

The move was announced Thursday by Prime Minister Pearson, who released the text of Mr. Favreau's letter of resignation and his own "My Dear Guy" reply.

The 49-year-old lawyer retains his two cabinet portfolios: registrar - general and the largely ceremonial post of president of the Privy Council.

In his letter, dated Jan. 11, Mr. Favreau said he decided to give up the Quebec leader's post after consultation with doctors. He hoped to return to his office next week after a long and severe illness.

However, informants say Mr. Favreau has no intention of risking another health breakdown in high-pressure federal politics, and will leave the scene within a year.

Although there's a Senate vacancy from Quebec, he's reportedly unwilling to take a $15,000-a-year post in the upper house. Mr. Pearson, a close friend, is likely to appoint him to the bench, possibly the Supreme Court of Canada.

MARCHAND IS PROSPECT

Manpower Minister Marchand, a rising star in the Liberal government, is expected to become Quebec leader, which normally means he'll also be Mr. Pearson's Quebec lieutenant.

Mr. Marchand has been interim leader during Mr. Favreau's absence.

The fast rise of Mr. Marchand, a former labor leader who entered federal politics in 1965, somewhat parallels that of Mr. Favreau, who gave up his French hopes that the talks will launch the increased French-German co-operation Kiesinger promised a month ago in his first policy statement after taking office.

The consultations are required twice a year under the treaty of friendship and co-operation signed four years ago by de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. But French-German relations cooled under Adenauer's successor, Ludwig Erhard, whose policies were strongly pro-American.

Kiesinger and de Gaulle were expected to discuss East-West issues, the possible entry of Britain to the Common Market, Vietnam and scientific co-operation between France and West Germany.

"We are hopeful," a French source said, "but we have to see first what he (Kiesinger) has to say."

Schools Shut By Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—A strike of 9,000 teachers today closed 500 schools in the Montreal area, affecting the education of 217,000 students in elementary and high school classes.

The walkout, involving teachers employed by the Montreal Catholic school commission, officially began at 8 a.m. EST when classes normally start in most of the schools.

A union spokesman said there was no possibility of any of the teachers showing up for classes today. No plans had been made to set up picket lines.

Last-minute negotiations had continued for most of the night but the full negotiating teams representing the two unions concerned and the school commission were not present.

"There was little we could do without everyone present," said a spokesman for a union representing 7,500 French-speaking teachers. "Anyway, we are far from a settlement."

RALLIES SET

The teachers were scheduled to attend two mass rallies today, one for the French-speaking section and another for their English-speaking counterparts. Union officials said they will discuss strike activities and arrangements with the school commission.

Tiny Togo Has Second Coup But Without Any Violence

COTONOU, Damoney (CP)—The tiny West African state of Togo had its second coup in four years today with the army reporting seizure of all civil powers.

The takeover was announced in a broadcast from Lome, the Togolese capital, by the army chief of staff, Lt.-Col. Etienne Eyadema. He warned the public to refrain from any political demonstrations and ordered all public offices closed for the day.

TOOK CHIEFS SIDE

Togo experienced a brief upheaval last Nov. 21, but Eyadema that time sided with Grunitzky and it was put down with no deaths or serious injuries.

Eyadema said the constitution was suspended, the National Assembly dissolved and all political activity forbidden.

Eyadema said the coup was prompted by "the grave situation which has reigned in the country" since Olympio's death four years ago today.

Eyadema said Togo would continue its foreign policy without changes, and he urged foreign residents to stay out of Togolese affairs.

Canada Has Vital Role Says Expert On UN

Canadians are well suited for the role of world peacekeepers, says an official of the United Nations Association in Canada.

Peter Trueman, the UNA's national director, was speaking to 74 members of the Canadian Club at a meeting held Thursday at the Matador Inn.

Among the reasons Mr. Trueman gave, was Canadians as a group have no special hatred, no special fears. "No other nation has any special fear of us, or special hatred for us."

Canadians are tolerated by everyone, he said—Russians, Americans, Africans and Asians. Canada has not developed to the point where the country is all-powerful, in spite of great material wealth.

Canada's fighting men are equipped with "the finest peace-keeping equipment available," making the country an invaluable element in a UN operation.

Canada's geographical position was another point in her favor—between "two giants," the U.S. and the Soviet Union, yet removed from any "likely area of brush fire conflict."

"Canadians have no part of the new colonialism—that is, heavy investment in any of the developing areas," he said.

Two official languages was another factor in the country's favor. "There are few areas of the world where man cannot make himself understood in French or English, and Canada can supply top-notch troops who speak both or either," he said.

Mr. Trueman said the "touchy" subject of the unification of the armed forces, had made Canada uniquely qualified for a UN peace-keeping role.

"One of the objects of unification, is to create a hard-hitting, fast-moving body of seasoned troops who can get anywhere first with the most. If that objective is achieved, we will, in effect, be the only country in the world whose armed forces fit UN peace-keeping specifications perfectly," he said.

GREATER ROLE
Mr. Trueman said if the object of defence is to prevent war through preparedness and the maintenance of some kind of deterrent, then the new Canadian armed forces would be of greater service to peace than "a whole flock of ICBMs with nuclear warheads."

He said Canadians should encourage their government to keep pressing for a permanent UN police force.

Speaking of Canada's resolution in the last session, which would have seated Communist China in the security council and the general assembly, and which would have created a new general assembly seat for "the so-called Nationalist Chinese government" and Canada's abstention on the Communist move to replace the Nationalist Chinese in both chambers, Mr. Trueman said:

"We have demonstrated to the new nations we are capable of rational behavior, that we are not necessarily bound to traditional Western positions, that like them or not, we are prepared at long last to admit the Communists govern China. We have, in effect, admitted out loud, the king has no clothes on."

"We must tell the Communist

Chinese, through diplomatic channels, the government of Canada recognizes the people's Republic of China, that we recognize Peking as the capital of the Chinese Mainland.

"The Communist Chinese may refuse to exchange the instruments of recognition. They are quite likely to insist there will be no Canadian Embassy in Peking until Canada also recognizes the Communists as the rightful government of Formosa."

Mr. Macklin, secretary-treasurer of the district, administered the oath of office to T. R. Carter, D. A. K. Fulks, Mrs. D. J. E. Pelly, and Dr. C. B. Henderson.

The other trustee, C. D. Buckland, was sworn into office earlier Thursday at the Kelowna General Hospital where he is recovering from an automobile accident.

The remaining board members, C. E. Sladen, Mrs. E. R. Stringer, J. W. Maddock and A. G. Pellard, are half way through their two-year terms.

WAR FILMS
He said before Canada can take her part in world affairs, she must "make sure her own nest is swept out." He referred to TV programs which showed 31 hours on Second World War topics, in one week, which he said, if it reflected public taste, showed an adult population too preoccupied with the glory and forgetting the horror.

He said racial discrimination existed in Canada as well as in the U.S., as reflected in the country's treatment of the Indians, and the talk against French Canadians.

Trustees Sworn In

D. A. K. Fulks, of Peachland, Thursday night was re-elected chairman of the School District 23 (Kelowna) board of trustees.

No one contested Mr. Fulks' nomination. This will be his second term as chairman.

The school board is unchanged from last year.

In addition to Mr. Fulks, the board re-elected C. D. Buckland as vice-chairman.

Five trustees, re-elected by acclamation for a two-year term, were sworn into office at the inaugural meeting.

Fred Macklin, secretary-treasurer of the district, administered the oath of office to T. R. Carter, D. A. K. Fulks, Mrs. D. J. E. Pelly, and Dr. C. B. Henderson.

The other trustee, C. D. Buckland, was sworn into office earlier Thursday at the Kelowna General Hospital where he is recovering from an automobile accident.

The remaining board members, C. E. Sladen, Mrs. E. R. Stringer, J. W. Maddock and A. G. Pellard, are half way through their two-year terms.

New Snowfall In Rogers Pass
Six inches of snow fell on the Rogers Pass overnight and slippery sections were reported by the department of highways in Kelowna at 8 a.m. today.

On the Banff-Calgary section, black ice was reported at Wapta Lake, otherwise the highway was in good winter condition.

The Allison Pass on the Hope-Princeton Highway had compact snow and some slippery sections. At Keremeos one inch of new snow was reported near Yellow Lake, also some slippery sections. Hedley reported the highway 50 per cent bare with some slippery sections.

Highway 97, from Penticton to Vernon was mostly bare and wet with some compact snow. Between Summerland and Westbank, two to three inches of slush was reported at higher levels. Side roads were bare and wet with some compact snow. The Kelowna-Beaverdell road had compact snow and slippery sections.

Compact snow was reported at Lumby and Cherryville and on the Monashee Highway.

The Fraser Canyon was bare and good. Motorists were advised to watch for rolling rocks. A skiff of snow was reported at Kamloops and Salmon Arm. Sicamous had compact snow. Eight inches of new snow was reported at Revelstoke.

Test Honors List Released
The Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto has released results of examinations held in Kelowna recently.

Sharon Tanenbaum obtained first class honors in history, Grade 5 theory.

Evelyn M. Durnin passed a harmony examination and Richard Thirsk, history, both in Grade 4 theory.

In the Grade 3 theory, Meredith E. Fay, passed history with honors.

Five obtained first class honors in Grade 2 theory: Kathryn J. Yamaoka, Colleen Marshall, Joyce S. Hayashi, David F. Marshall and Eileen Reid. Honors were obtained by Robert B. Thirsk.

Sharon Alderott, Charlotte Rohrer and Margaret Lee passed Grade 1 theory with first class honors and Randolph Christie, with honors.

NO HONOR AMONG THIEVES AS BEER GETS RE-STOLEN

RCMP have recovered about 25 cases of beer, part of the 63 cases stolen from Jenkins Cartage Ltd., Ellis Street on Saturday. Due to the readily consumable nature of the stolen goods, police said they do not expect to recover many more cases.

The story of the theft, revealed in magistrate's court today, illustrated the old adage that there is no honor among thieves.

The prosecutor said three adults and three juveniles removed the beer from the warehouse, carting it off in two cars and hiding it in the bushes at the rifle range on Casorso Road. Two cases were consumed. The hidden beer was later stolen "by other persons."

Reginald F. Marshall, 988 Glangary St., pleaded guilty today to a charge of breaking, entering and theft from Jenkins Cartage and was remanded in custody pending a report from the probation officer.

Senior Students Here Shine Says District Superintendent

The good results accomplished by School District 23 (Kelowna) students writing university entrance examinations were outlined Thursday night in a report from the district superintendent.

F. J. Orme, in his 1966 annual report, told school trustees the 1966 pass percentage at the Grade 13 level was the district's best in several years.

In Grade 13, six of 17 students writing the examinations received averages between 70 and 80 per cent.

In Grade 12, there were 30 pupils participating. Of these, 14 received 80 per cent or better and 11 received between 70 and 79 per cent.

Students with 80 per cent or better have one half of their university fees repaid; students with a percentage of 70 to 79 per cent have one-third of their fees repaid.

School libraries are causing problems for the district, Mr. Orme said.

The stock of library books is "considerably below recommended optimum figures" and the situation cannot be alleviated by ordinary budget means.

Mr. Orme suggested consideration should be given to improving the situation by means of a special referendum.

Both the student and teacher population in the district is rapidly increasing, Mr. Orme said.

Enrolment has grown from 5,791 pupils in 1961 to 8,120 last year.

There were 247 teachers employed in 1962. Last year, the district employed 325 teachers.

The school transportation network has grown along with the enrolment. In 1964, there were 13 buses in operation. They covered 641 miles and carried 1,228 pupils.

In 1966, there were 16 buses operating. They travelled 835 miles and carried 1,738 pupils.

The adult education department, under the direction of S. J. Gowan, is now among the largest in the province.

Cloudy . . .
Clouds will continue to hang over the Okanagan Saturday with probable rain or snow overnight.

However, the weatherman says, temperatures will remain mild with a low tonight of 32 and high Saturday of 40. Temperatures Thursday climbed to 42 then dropped to freezing overnight.

On the same day last year, a high of 40 and low of 35 were recorded.

Jail Term Suspended
A Kelowna youth was given a six-month suspended sentence in magistrate's court today, on a charge of possession of stolen property.

George William Dunn, 750 Coronation Ave., had previously pleaded guilty to the charge, which involved a battery taken from a parked car. He was placed on probation for six months and his driver's licence was suspended for the same period. He was required to post a bond for $200 on his own recognizance.

Ronald Anderson and Donald Wayne Ball, both of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of gasoline, valued at less than $50 and were remanded in custody pending a report from the probation officer. The charges were laid as a result of police incident at 1:30 a.m. today.

John Peter Huyder, 473 West Ave., changed his plea to guilty on a charge of driving without tail lights and was fined $25.

In district magistrate's court Thursday, Gary Clinton Marshall of Kelowna, was convicted of a charge of causing a disturbance by fighting and was fined $25.

Would Stop 'Yearly Hassles' Says District 23 Chairman

D. A. K. Fulks, chairman of the board of trustees for School District 23 (Kelowna), Thursday night recommended that teacher salary negotiations take place at the province-wide level.

In a report of his first year as chairman of the board, Mr. Fulks said renewed efforts should be made to put these discussions on a provincial level, and this would avoid "the yearly hassles which can contribute nothing but harm to the educational system."

'HIGH DEMANDS'
Salary negotiations with teachers broke down this year because of the "unusually high demands" of the local teachers' association.

Mr. Fulks said it was obvious the B.C. Teachers' Federation was urging local associations to attempt to obtain large increases.

The teachers' dispute went to arbitration this year after conciliation attempts failed. Teachers were awarded a 6½ per cent increase, plus fringe benefits.

"The propaganda put out by the federation with regard to salary negotiations was particularly intense this year. The federation criticized the efforts of the trustees' association to assist school boards by providing negotiators and advocates. Yet the federation ignored the fact that the whole of the powerful organization of the teachers' federation was directing local associations," Mr. Fulks said. The main weight of work during the year, fell on the education and building committees, Mr. Fulks said in the report.

Recommendations from the education committee include: —A further study of educational television and team teaching; —Facilities for special help to elementary teachers because of the new Language Arts program; —Special educational facilities for the physically handicapped; —Kindergartens, and —Driver education.

The building committee reported the completion of all projects except some minor changes in the Kelowna Secondary School complex, the four-room school at Glenora, the addition to North Glenora, and the Wood Lake school.

TIGHT MONEY
The two Glenora projects and the Wood Lake School have been held up by government restrictions on the borrowing of money.

Mr. Fulks congratulated School District 23 voters on their support for the proposed Okanagan Regional College.

The college's future is still unknown but "if we still believe in the project, we must find out how best to resolve the differences, overcome the problems and get the college in operation."

13 Courses At Night School After Pause For Holidays
The adult education department of the Kelowna school district, after a relatively quiet holiday season, is gathering steam again.

There are 13 night school courses beginning next week. Subject range from soup-making to hydraulics.

Five courses begin Monday at the Kelowna Secondary School at 7:30 p.m.

The courses include a 10-session public speaking class, sponsored by the Kelowna Jaycees; a drapery-making course given by Mrs. Joy Rutherford; a soup-from-foreign-lands course by Mrs. Stephanie Barnes; and hydraulics, instructed by Jack Farrell.

A charm and self-improvement course for teen-age girls also begins Monday.

Instructed by Mrs. Betty Currell, the course will be held from 4 to 5:30 p.m. for eight weeks.

The course is limited to Grade 10 to 12 students.

Basic beauty procedures, make-up, hair styling, posture, figure control and wardrobe planning are some of the subjects to be covered.

Mrs. Currell is a graduate of an Edmonton modelling club. A four-session personal hair styling course, instructed by Mrs. Edith Hillier, begins Tuesday at the secondary school.

Representative of Kelowna Investment houses will lecture, Background for investment, including financial statements, is Thursday's topic.

CENTENARY
The Canadian Centennial film program, a free weekly series co-sponsored by the National Film Board and the adult education department, begins Thursday.

SCHOOL BOARD BRIEFS

The Confederation Caravan will visit Peachland Aug. 31, T. R. Carter, chairman of the building committee, told the school board Thursday night.

Mr. Carter is preparing school grounds for the eight-vehicle caravan. Each trailer weighs 20 tons and is 71 feet long, 10 feet wide and 12 feet high.

The school board granted permission to Frank Orme, superintendent of schools, to use school buses to transport children to the Canadian Confederation Train Feb. 7 and 8.

Children in Grades 5 and 8 and Grade 11 from all district schools will take the school bus tour.

Elementary school children will present a Music Canadiana concert during centennial year. The children will tell Canada's story in song and music. The program is tentatively scheduled for the end of April at the Community Theatre.

Hundreds of school children are expected to participate in a mass physical education display during centennial year. The show will likely take place in City Park.

L. P. Dedinsky, Kelowna Secondary School; A. A. Craig, Rymore Elementary School and N. H. Kroecker, Lakeview Elementary School, were visiting principals in attendance at the school meeting.

A request from the German Saturday School of Kelowna to use classroom space in a city school was referred to the education and rental committees for further study.

The School District 23 (Kelowna) budget will be presented at the board's next meeting, Jan. 26.

SAYS INTERIM REPRESENTATIVE

'Act Now On College'

The Kelowna school board should get ready to act instead of waiting to be rebuffed again in the establishment of a regional college, school trustees were told Thursday night.

The call for action came from C. E. Sladen, the trustee elected as an interim member on the Okanagan Regional College Council while the board's representative is on sick leave.

Before acting on the request, Mr. Sladen said, the board should first decide if you still want the college.

Mr. Sladen had been told by the board that the college was not living up to its agreements.

If the college is ever to be established here, Kelowna must get ready to operate on a board basis, he argued.

The Valley has spent eight years developing the college, he said.

We just $100,000 carrying out an independent survey to confirm the first college study.

Mr. Sladen suggested one of the district's schools could be made the basis for the college. Portable classrooms could be pressed into emergency use.

Mr. Sladen will serve as the board's representative on the college council while C. D. Buckland is recovering from an automobile accident. The board re-elected Mr. Buckland as the permanent representative for 1966.

Mr. Sladen said the college council must get ready to move alone, he said.

"When it becomes apparent we are being rebuffed again, School District 23 should have its own college committee ready to take over."

AROUND TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Knowles returned on the weekend from a holiday motor trip to California. They visited friends and relatives en route, and spent Christmas in San Diego, where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. John Woodworth with Robin and Carol, who flew down for Christmas week. Mr. and Mrs. Knowles then visited friends in Los Angeles and Sacramento. Among the highlights of their trip were their tour through Disneyland's new "Small World" and watching the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena.

The Leslie Cmolik rink, who won the Kelowna Ladies' Curling Club playdowns, left today for Osoyoos to participate in the District Zone playdowns this weekend. Skip of the rink is Mrs. G. W. Cmolik; third, Mrs. G. C. Paulson; second, Mrs. Carl Thompson; and lead Mrs. G. H. Robertson.

Mrs. J. J. Ladd returned on the weekend from Montreal, where she spent the holidays visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Ladd and her small granddaughter.

Mrs. A. B. Clark and her sister, Mrs. E. H. Smythe have returned from Trail, where they spent the holidays visiting Mrs. Clark's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Clark and family, and her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vance and family.

Mr. and Mrs. James Langridge of Vancouver are enjoying a few days in Kelowna skiing at Big White. Mr. Langridge was formerly with the CPA in Kelowna.

Mrs. Frank Klassen from Laird, Saskatchewan, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Edward Schmok of Kelowna has been joined by her friend, Mrs. William Schuman of Saskatoon, who arrived on Monday to enjoy several weeks' vacation in our milder climate.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Owen have returned home after spending the holidays with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hansen and their grandchildren, Randi and Tracy in Revelstoke.

Robert Bruce Rankin, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartwick has returned to the Vernon Preparatory School after spending the holidays in Kelowna.

Canada's Centenary Is Theme Of Westbank WI Meeting

WESTBANK — Canada's centenary became the unplanned theme of the January meeting of Westbank Women's Institute, Monday, during which Mrs. A. E. Fearnley read columnist Pat Carney's wish for Canadians to have a "sense of country" and the ability to appreciate it and to respond to it as a whole, despite the fact that many of the people and customs in regions other than our own are unfamiliar to us.

Too many lack this sense, and therefore, "will watch TV programs that mean nothing to us and listen to speeches that strike no responsive cord." Completed Centennial projects making suitable acknowledgement to Confederation — "will inspire in us no particular sentiment... And so we will wonder about ourselves... Can we, who have so little sense of the past, have much hope for a future?"

Miss Carney, who recently flew the length of Canada, is sure we are unique — that "the country gives us that uniqueness, for there is no other like it... During her flight she thought of explorers living out their youth in the northern plains and, travelling down the backbone of the Rockies the passes were peopled with the ghosts of old explorers who turned the great northern rivers into the freeways of their day, using the minor rivers as exit and access roads... These people had a sense of country because they found something of value here, and whatever it was surmounted the difficulties of living and the attractions of an easier life somewhere else."

And she concludes, "That is what I wish for Canadians, that each may find in Canada something so valuable that it transcends our differences and unites us. That would be the best birthday present ever." Members decided the wish was worth some serious thought.

A DOZEN EMBLEMS
One project Institute members decided on was the depicting of the flower emblems of the twelve provinces.

Another letter of appreciation was from Woodlands schools, for clothing sent there, where the need for items for all ages and both sexes is great. Both letters were more than reward enough for those to whom they were addressed.

Mrs. Carl Sven, whose birthday is this month, was the winner of the afternoon's prize, and Mrs. William MacLean invited members to her home for the February meeting.

Community Association Entertains Older Group In Westbank Hall

Westbank Recreation Commission and Community Association has purchased 50 chairs for the Community Hall, and a card party set for January 21 — a Saturday evening — will, it is hoped, supply funds toward another 50. New tables will be the next project undertaken by this combined group.

Henry Paulson has made a cover to protect the piano from damage as this instrument has suffered rather badly on occasion when those hiring the hall have been careless.

There were the usual black and white combinations and the gleefully gleaming floors, sweeping things.

Nevertheless, the winners of the Irish sweepstakes harked back to the olden days with heavy crocheting, rough crash fabric in its natural color combined in the most elegant ways.

Take the simple column of Irish linen with its knee-to-floor border of lace and lace-trimmed shoulder straps. Or take the linen crocheted bathrobe and wrapped around a dress meant for a very public life indeed. If you saw them, you'd take them.

Scene Of Czech-Goltz Rites Is Evangelical Free Church

The Evangelical Free Church of Kelowna was the scene of a pretty double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Carol Helene Goltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Goltz of Kelowna, and Joseph Paul Czech, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Czech of Mayerthorpe, Alta., on Dec. 22 at 6 p.m.

Given in marriage by her father, the pretty bride wore a classically simple full length gown of "peau d' elegance" fashioned with long-lily-point sleeves and a fur-trimmed, rounded neckline. White fur trimmed the long graceful train, and a white fur wedding band ring held in place her short triple layered veil. She carried a bouquet of deep red roses.

Mrs. Dieter Schuppener of Kelowna, the matron of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Linda Czech of Mayerthorpe, Alta., were charming in floor length velvet dresses styled on similar lines to the bride's gown. The matron of honor was in royal blue and the bridesmaid in red, and both dresses were trimmed with white fur at the neck. Their headresses were white fur rosettes with pearl centres, and they carried white fur muffs trimmed with red roses.

Acting as best men were Glen Czech of Mayerthorpe, Alta., and Dieter Schuppener of Kelowna. Ushering the guests to their pews was Seig Waage of Kelowna.

At the reception which followed at Norm's Downtowner the mother of the bride received wearing a green and white paisley suit complemented with winter white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was unable to attend.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. El Samu of Drumheller, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. Sieg Siewert of Osoyoos, Mr. and Mrs. Schenfield of Wildwood, Alta.; and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hill of Kamloops.

Mothers' March Campaign Subject Of Talk At Kinetite Club Meeting

The Kinetite Club of Kelowna's first meeting of Canada's Centennial year was highlighted by Percy Tinker, guest speaker and 1967 chairman of the Mothers' March Campaign.

Tinker spoke on the up and coming campaign which is to take place this year on Feb. 1. As a follow-up to Mr. Tinker's talk a letter from Al Cowan, Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the Polio Rehabilitation Foundation was read which explained some of the many uses of the money raised from the Mothers' March.

The Club also welcomed a new Kinetite from Trail, Mrs. David Stevenson.

It was reported by Mrs. Philip Ramage that one layette was donated to the hospital last month.

Crossbow Champion Shoots Like A Man
VANCOUVER (CP)—The new crossbow champion of Vancouver is a petite 33-year-old mother of four who can hit a target the size of a quarter from 100 feet.

Elzy Wyssen, who came here from her native Switzerland in 1953, has been a member of the Vancouver Swiss Crossbow Association since it was formed two years ago.

Her home contains a number of crossbow shooting trophies as well as a painting of William Tell, the legendary Swiss hero who shot an apple off his son's head.

"The crossbow is a very accurate weapon," Mrs. Wyssen says. "But I just don't think I'd like to do the apple trick. It was all right for William Tell but it's just a bit too dangerous for me."

The crossbow, which employs a trigger mechanism for firing, is a traditional weapon in Switzerland, which has about 150 crossbow organizations, Mrs. Wyssen says.

She shoots with a crossbow that weighs 20 pounds and is made of polished walnut and steel. Because of the weight, women usually engage in target practice with the aid of a support. Men normally bear the full weight of the weapon when shooting.

A year ago, Mrs. Wyssen decided to shoot in the same fashion as men. That's when she won the championship.

HOSTESS AT WESTERN CANADA PAVILION EXPO 67

Pat Friesen of Winnipeg models the hostess uniform for the Western Canada Pavilion at Expo '67. The uniform, a salmon pink ensemble in wool worsted crepe with detachable polka dot collar, cuffs and hat trim, was selected recently in Winnipeg by a group of seven judges, from eight designs prepared by the Manitoba Garment Industry. The judges included three ladies' fashion experts and the representatives of the four Western Provincial Governments responsible for planning the Pavilion. Four young ladies from each Western Province, 16 in all, will staff the Pavilion. Miss Friesen is one of Manitoba's contingent.

ANN LANDERS

This Child May Be 'Hyperkinetic'

Dear Ann Landers: Our two children, 12 and 14, never gave us any trouble. They were responsive to discipline, good in their studies and my husband and I feel that they will be useful human beings and good citizens.

But our younger son is completely different and we are worried sick about him. He is a hell-raiser like you wouldn't believe. Freddie is seven years old and he can outrun, outsmart and outmanoeuvre both his brother and sister. This child is fast as lightning and he never seems to get tired. He hasn't taken a nap since he was three years old. Even when he stays up until 11:00 p.m. he is up at 6:00 in the morning tearing the house apart.

I cannot keep track of Freddie, much less discipline him. His teachers have the same problem. He spills things, cuts things, breaks things, teases the other children, finishes the assignment in half the time (of course it is poorly done) and then he looks for mischief to get into. Please tell me what to do. I am on daily doses of tranquilizers. — END OF MY ROPE.

Dear Rope: Have you taken Freddie to a physician lately? If you have not done so I strongly recommend it.

Medical science has made tremendous progress in the field of child behavior. Thirty years ago, overly active children were considered "spoiled" or "mischievous." They ran wild, wore everyone to a frazzle and the doctor put the frantic mothers on medication.

I am not attempting to make a medical diagnosis but from your description of the boy, there is a chance that he might be a hyperkinetic child. Please ask your physician to check him. Maybe the wrong person is getting the medication.

Dear Ann Landers: Although I have been married a couple of times I am still an ignorant male. Will you please tell me how it is possible for a man to know a woman until he has lived with her?

You are opposed to men and women living together without the benefit of clergy and have said so repeatedly, maybe it's time you changed your mind. And with so many phones ringing around here the days have come when a man who is a woman's REALITY here is better than any her company could be.

Dear Ann: Many marriages fail because people choose to ignore their faults and severe character defects, which are obvious during courtship. After a few months, when the kitchen wears off and what's underneath begins to show, the disillusion sets in.

And when the disillusion sets in, the marriage is over. Two women are also among the 12 members of the Council of the Ladies-Marguerite, the wife of Belgium and Maria Van der Zand of Holland.

blindest of all. People who keep an eye and an ear open during courtship can learn all they need to know — if they want to, that is.

Confidentially to Told You All: You sure did, lovey, and my advice is to do as your doctor suggested. And please, no more over-spilled milk, kindly condense it.

Leader In Education Gains Permission To Secularize College

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sister Jacqueline Grennan, well-known education leader who thrives on challenge and new ideas, has been granted permission to convert a Roman Catholic college for women into a secular institution.

At her request, the 40-year-old educationist also will become Miss Grennan. She closed Wednesday that she had asked to be relieved of her vows as a Sister of Loretto, and that a dispensation from the vows had been granted by Joseph Cardinal Ritter, Roman Catholic Archbishop of the St. Louis diocese.

Cardinal Ritter and the Sisters of Loretto have asked her, however, to remain as president of Webster College, in suburban Webster Groves.

Experts on Catholic education said the secularization of Webster College marks the first time such an action has been taken in the United States.

Sister Jacqueline said her action in no way represents a break with the church.

Women Appointed To Catholic Curia

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope Paul has appointed five women to the previously all-male Curia, or Roman Catholic Church government.

They are among the members of two new organizations set up by the Pope—one for the laity, the other to promote development and international social justice.

An Australian, Miss Rosemary Goldie, 50, of Sydney was appointed vice secretary of the Council of the Laity.

Barbara Ward, British economist and journalist, was named as one of 12 members of a joint study commission to study ways of helping poorer countries. She has written several books about such problems.

Another member of the commission is Margie Klump, a Dutch politician.

Social Credit WA Elects Officers

The president, Mrs. Freda Odland, presided at the January 9 meeting of the Kelowna Social Credit Women's Auxiliary at which time a new slate of officers was elected for the coming year.

Elected as president was Mrs. A. M. Leboe; Mrs. G. H. Tozer, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. G. E. Noton, first vice-president; Mrs. E. Harris, second vice-president; Mrs. J. J. Johnson, third vice-president, and Mrs. J. M. Tozer, fourth vice-president.

Mrs. Odland, the retiring president, gave an interesting account of the achievement of the auxiliary during the past year and graciously thanked all the members for their co-operation and help, wishing the new president every success in her endeavors.

Count On The Irish To See You Through

NEW YORK (AP)—Your linen table cloth with its heavily crocheted insert, or the lace curtains for the matter, may become chic garments in your spring wardrobe.

But if you are not handy with needle and thread and your home furnishings, you can count on the Irish to see you through.

For the sake of U.S. style writers here for the New York couture group's semi-annual press week activities, it was a fashion day for the Irish—especially the makers of the linen fibres which contribute measurably to the textile industry.

Thus, a wardrobe of garments made not from the usual wool and cotton yarns, but from linens, took over the runways Friday. The costumes ran the gamut, from spare emerald (what else?) green disco dresses to kiddy clothes in, yes, even orange.

PANTS REACH LOW
There were nutty things—orange bell-bottomed pants suit with mallard feathers at the neck, a matching helmet and sun glasses. There were modesty garments such as semi-fitted torso dresses with lace-knit pants reaching far below the hemline.

There were the usual black and white combinations and the gleefully gleaming floors, sweeping things.

Nevertheless, the winners of the Irish sweepstakes harked back to the olden days with heavy crocheting, rough crash fabric in its natural color combined in the most elegant ways.

Take the simple column of Irish linen with its knee-to-floor border of lace and lace-trimmed shoulder straps. Or take the linen crocheted bathrobe and wrapped around a dress meant for a very public life indeed. If you saw them, you'd take them.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Canada's skiing sweetheart has been knocking 'em dead over in Europe for the past week or so. Nancy Greene, the whiz kid from Rossland, has walked away with top honors in four of the last big ski events.

At Menzies of Apex has been keeping the department of highways busy this last week. Monday saw four inches of new snow which needed clearing. Tuesday saw four inches of snow which needed clearing. Wednesday saw four inches of snow which needed clearing. So skiing should be powerfully great on Apex this weekend.

Apex's Top Cats, the junior racers are expecting to host junior racing clubs from the other areas this Sunday. Millie Menzies is not too sure that the other mountains are interested in inter-mountain junior racing though. She hasn't received any indication whether the other three areas are sending junior racers. What's the matter, other three areas???

If you're in Penitence, going skiing, wish to break a leg, have a nose-bleed or a blister, do it on Thursday. Thursday seems to be the day of the week when most of them show up on the arroyos of Apex. At counted eight sawbones up last Thursday, and about the same on previous weeks.

Apex will host two busloads of Vancouverites Jan. 21 and 22. These are private tours arranged by CASA and B.C. Hydro respectively.

Millie has also arranged for three busloads of school children to ski every Saturday with reduced rates, and lessons. The school kids benefit, the area benefits, and it will probably taking in a year or two as many of these children are naturally taking to racing.

Are you certified???? as an instructor that is. If you are, and would like a job, contact ski pro Willy Leitner at Vernon. It's very interesting to sit close to those who sit near the loudspeakers in the chalets, and who make comments on the music being played on same. Overheard while several compositions were drifting across the tables, skis, boots, and socks, were the following: "Listen Mildred that's the sound track from Lawrence of Arabia." "Holy smoke! What kind of music is that for a ski place." "I'll bet that's the music from Soul of Spain." "Dad-blasted thing is too loud. Wish they would put it in the other corner." "Isn't that beautiful Harry?" "No, Florence, it isn't." Oh well, to each his own.

Vernon was the host to CBC film people Mr. and Mrs. John Hodsworth of Vancouver Tuesday. The Hodsworths are up in the valley doing a 15-minute color film on the three areas. Interesting to note was Mr. Hodsworth's remark that he had never seen powder snow until he came to the Okanagan. He and his wife had skied in New Zealand before coming to Canada. No powder—unbelievable.

Well-known Calgary golf pro, Howard French and his wife Shirley were ski-weeking at Vernon this week also. Vernon's snow report goes like this: 72 inches of base with five to six inches of new snow. Great ski conditions. The road is being widened out. A bulldozer is creating an almost four-lane road.

Outdoor columnist Jim Treadgold did it. Yes he finally did it. After selling skis for 20-odd years he thought he had better find out what on earth possesses people to spend hundreds of dollars (some at his place) on skis, boots and what have you to go up and slide down some snow.

Jim went up to Big White recently, tied some of his own sliding merchandise, and even went so far as to take some lessons. His last remarks were "it's great!"

Big White has seven feet of snow now. That should be chalet roof high, but it doesn't look that way as there is considerable settling. BW does have the most snow though. When snow does get this high it's a big job keeping it off the road, and the blower has been put into operation this week.

Big White's Boomers (junior racers) are scheduled to take in several inter mountain meets this year, hopefully starting out this weekend at the Apex meet.

Season passholders at BW will be able to spend Jan. 28-29 at Silver Star, free. They will also be able to ski at Apex Feb. 25-26. It's a bonus for season passholders.

Two television crews are taking in BW this week. Doug Mervyn is currently hosting the CBC color camera and is expecting a crew from B.C. television. Both are Vancouver based.

Lots of lots are gone on BW. In fact they are all gone. There will be more though. A block of about 12 more will be put up for sale early this year.

The last week was generally speaking a slow one, as is the rule for this time of year. The preceding festive season, with accompanying partying intertwined with skiing is just too much for the average skier. The first week in January sees them staying away in droves. So I know I speak for all area operators when I say—Come back droves. Be skiing you.

Canada's Nancy Greene Defeats Entire World

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (AP)—Canada's Nancy Greene, the ski sensation of 1967, decisively won the downhill race of the Swiss international ski championships today against a field comprising virtually the entire world elite.

Miss Greene, 23-year-old Notre Dame University student from Rossland, B.C., beat her closest rival, Isabelle Mir of France, by nearly 1.5 seconds to become the top contender for women's skiing honors in next year's Winter Olympics at Grenoble, France.

It was her fourth victory in five major international races in Europe this season. Today's 2,350-metre downhill race, with a field of 67 women from nine nations, was the first major international downhill race of the season.

Miss Greene was clocked in two minutes, 5.32 seconds. Miss Mir's time was 2:06.79. Florence Steurer of France finished third with 2:07.48.

Nancy was lucky to draw the No. 3 starting position behind Italy's Giustina Demetz and her most dangerous rival, Annie Famose of France.

Miss Famose, who was regarded as the only girl like y to beat Nancy, lost her balance high up on the course, fell, and abandoned the race.

In today's ideal conditions, with a thin layer of new snow on the icy surface, early start numbers gave an exceptional advantage.

Miss Mir and Marielle Goitschel, who had the best practice times next to Miss Greene and Miss Famose, were handicapped by starting Nos. 13 and 14.

Nonetheless, 19-year-old Miss Mir, the up-and-coming star of the French team, was 1.2 seconds better than Miss Greene over the first half of the course. She then lost nearly three seconds in the second half.

Miss Steurer also beat Miss Greene over the first half of the course, then lost time in the lower stretches.

HAS BIG LEAD
In the New World Cup for individual skiers, Miss Greene had a commanding lead following today's race with 100 points for lower by Miss Famose, 60, and Marielle Goitschel and Miss Steurer, both with 40. Miss Greene stood beside Queen Juliana of The Netherlands watching her rivals flash down the track one by one, glancing anxiously at the electronic clock to see if anyone bettered her time.

After Miss Steurer, the 19-year-old starter, came down more than two seconds behind, Miss Greene was sure of victory.

Grimacing happily, she said: "I don't like downhill races but I wanted to win this one and went all out to get it."

She fell and was disqualified in Tuesday's special slalom race won by Miss Famose and this was not placed in the slalom downhill combination result of the Grindelwald meet. This was decisively won by Miss Mir.

Gina Hathorn, 20-year-old English banker's daughter from Andover, Hampshire, started 54th but still managed a time sufficiently good to give her third place in the combination.

She was the sensation of the special slalom which she placed second, easily the best performance by any British skier in modern international competition.

Her combined placing was another British best performance.

League-Leading Rangers Ousted From the Gardens

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
It's on down and four to go for New York Rangers.

The Rangers, the biggest surprise of the National Hockey League season, have been ousted from Madison Square Garden because of an ice show. That forced the club to play five straight on the road, starting with a game in Boston Thursday night.

Now the Rangers have only four games left on their road swing, and if they get the same solid netmanning performance from Ed Giacomin they shouldn't have trouble keeping their current pace.

Giacomin, the lanky 27-year-old goalkeeper, kicked out 21 shots to register his fifth shut-out of the season as the Rangers downed the hapless Bruins 3-0.

Jim Neilson, Bob Nevin and Vic Hadfield scored for the Rangers.

WINGS BEAT HAWKS
In the other NHL game Thursday night, Detroit Red Wings downed Chicago Black Hawks 4-1. Paul Henderson paced Detroit with two goals and Dean Prentice and Bruce MacGregor added one each. Bobby Hull scored Chicago's only goal.

Giacomin's fifth shut-out against the Bruins gave him the lead in that department. He was tied with Detroit's Roger Crozier before Thursday's game.

BOB NEVIN
... middle goal

Giacomin made a brilliant save on Gilles Marotte. Bobby Orr and Pit Martin in the third period to preserve his shutout.

Neilson gave the Rangers all the goals they needed when he scored on a 25-foot shot in the second period after the clubs battled through a scoreless first. Nevin made it 2-0 at 1:09 of third period and Hadfield put the game out of reach just over six minutes later.

ALONE IN FIRST

The victory moved the Rangers back into sole possession of first place in the standings. They were tied for the top spot with Chicago going into the game.

There was hard hitting by both sides during the game but only one penalty was handed out. Boston's John McKenzie was sent off for elbowing in the first period.

The Rangers fired 26 shots at Boston's Ed Johnston. The loss left the Bruins in last place with 23 points.

The Wings came up with a 50-shot barrage at Chicago goalie Glenn Hall as they gained revenge for a 6-1 Wednesday night setback at the hands of the Black Hawks.

The Red Wings, who moved to within five points of the fourth-place Montreal Canadiens with their victory, fired 12 shots at Hall in the first period, 19 in the second and 19 again in the third.

HULL SCORES 23RD

Prentice gave Detroit a 1-0 lead but Hull tied it at 7:43 of the second period with his 23rd of the season, tops in the NHL.

Henderson put Detroit ahead 2-1 less than five minutes later and MacGregor increased the lead to 3-1 with his goals in the last minute of play in the second period while the Red Wings held a manpower advantage.

Henderson closed out the scoring with his second goal of the night early in the third period.

The Hawks, who slipped to second place because of the New York victory over Boston, had 28 shots at Detroit goalie Roger Crozier.

The victory was Detroit's third against the Hawks this year in nine meetings. Last year, the Red Wings managed only one win and two ties in 14 games with Chicago.

On Saturday, Boston is at Montreal, Detroit will be in Toronto for a game with the Maple Leafs and the Rangers play in Chicago.

On Sunday, Montreal is at Boston, Toronto at Chicago and New York at Detroit.

Canadians Served With Notice On Long, Cold Russian Winters

KITCHENER (CP)—Like Napoleon, the Canadian national hockey team has discovered they still face a long, cold winter against the Russians.

Napoleon led his triumphant French forces into Moscow, but the Russian winter and the endurance of its people forced him to vacate the city and the country, losing half his army en route.

The Canadian nationals, who gained two victories and a tie against the touring Soviet Union's national team during the last week, were defeated 5-3 by the Russians here Thursday night.

It was a morale victory for the world champion Soviets, who had played four games in the last five days, and a reminder to the Canadians that they can't count on upsetting the Russians in the world championships at Vienna in March.

It was the final game in Canada for the Russians and their seventh victory in 11 games. They also lost to the Czechoslovakian national team during the Canadian Centennial tournament in Winnipeg last week.

And, while the Russians are returning to the U.S.S.R. to resume play in the country's strongest league, the Canadians will be working out against several clubs for the next eight weeks.

Canada's coach, Jackie McLeod, says his team has nine games scheduled during that time against senior clubs "which unfortunately can't provide us with the kind of opposition we need."

"We should be playing professional clubs actually, but they just aren't available," McLeod explained that the Canadians will play six games in Europe before the world tournament, "so we should have a chance to get squared away again."

Thursday's loss was only the second of the season for the Canadian team, which lost to New York Rangers. They also defeated the Rangers twice.

Vladimir Turzinov, Alexander Stringanov, Edward Ivanov, Anatoli Firsov and Viacheslav Starshinov were the Russian marksmen Thursday. Frank Huck, Roger Bourbonnais and Gary Dineen replied for Canada.

The Canadians controlled play in the first period, taking a 1-0 lead, but the Russians came back to outscore their opponents 4-2 in the second period. Stringanov's goal late in the third period gave the Soviet team the victory.

Both teams fired 23 shots and received five penalties. Maury Wills is ready for another stormy National League pennant race.

Wills, the shortstop who fell into disfavor with Los Angeles Dodgers after the 1966 season and was traded to Pittsburgh, signed with the National League Pirates Thursday for an undisclosed amount. He received about $80,000 last season.

"He signed with a smile on his face," general manager Joe L. Brown of the Pirates said. "I didn't have to twist his arm. So obviously he's satisfied, or he wouldn't have signed."

If the occasion struck a happy note for the Pirates and the 34-year-old shortstop, who is tabbed for third base duty with Pittsburgh, it brought a chorus of the blues from at least one other National League manager.

Leo Durocher of Chicago Cubs said the acquisition of Wills, ired with the Dodgers, makes the Pirates the team to beat.

Wills will "give 200 per cent instead of just 100 per cent" for the Pirates, "a good club to begin with," Durocher said.

Brown, who gave up infielder-outfielder Bob Bailey and infielder Gene Michael to the Dodgers, said Wills' knee trouble is cleared up.

The Wills signing was only one of many to be announced Thursday, Boston Red Sox leading the way with 13.

Pitcher Jack Fisher, being counted on heavily by New York Mets, came to terms. The right-hander posted an 11-14 record last season.

St. Louis signed veteran center fielder Curt Flood and rookie right-handed pitcher Joe D'Amico. Flood needs to play only the first two games of next season without an error to set a new National League record of 187 straight errorless games for an outfielder. He hit .267 in 1966 after three consecutive .300-plus years.

San Francisco also signed a key pitcher, Bob Bolin, a right-hander who was 11-10 last season with four of his losses being shutouts, came to terms for an estimated $30,000.

SCHOOL HOOPSTERS
Open New Year

The Okanagan Mainline Secondary School Basketball league opens this evening. Kelowna Owls travel to Penticton for the first scheduled league game. Saturday afternoon, Kelowna plays host to the Vernon Panthers.

Kelowna Owls have a record of 7 wins and 5 losses for the pre-season exhibition schedule.

War Buffs Finally Win

The War Buffs finally hit the winning trail in men's city basketball. War Buffs upset league leading Industrial 40-36, Tuesday evening in the Kelowna Secondary School gym.

In other men's action, Teachers outpointed the Dons 88-62.

The sharpshooter for the revitalized War Buffs was Ferguson with 18 points, followed by Leboutany with 11. Other War Buff baskets were tallied by Lander, with six, Howard with two, Grierson with two, and Winter with one.

Scoring for Industrials were Carneross with seven, Robertson with 11, Jeffers with nine, Wong with five, Fisher and Dean each tallied two for the losers.

In the other game, Turkington hit for 30 points to lead the Teachers to victory over the Dons. Other teacher scorers were Samol, with 18, Davy with 29, Bulatovich with 10 and Lafontaine with one.

Scoring for the Dons were Monteleone with 16, Ghislieri with 14, Morrison, with 12, Perst with six, Schneider with four and Goddard with two.

War Buffs will be looking for their second win in a row next week when they tangle with the third-place Dons. In the second game, Teachers vs. Industrials. Game times, 7:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Paul Hornung Poses Question As Super Sunday Draws Nearer

ulation on whether Paul Hornung will play heightened interest today in the Super Bowl game as both Green Bay Packers and Kansas City Chiefs went through final workouts in preparation for Sunday's first clash of U.S. professional football champions.

The battle between the National and American football league champions developed when the rival coaches pointed to Green Bay's Hornung as player who could make a difference in this rich struggle for supremacy.

Not only will pride be on the line in the long-awaited game, which will be televised by the CBC at 4:05 p.m. EST, but record payoffs of $15,000 to each member of the winning team and $7,500 to each loser.

With that substantial pot of gold up for grabs, the Hornung hunch first cropped up at the Chiefs' Long Beach training camp, where coach Hank Stram said:

"I don't have any particular reason for saying so—it's more like a feeling—but I think Hornung will see a considerable amount of action."

LOMBARDI COMMENTS
Asked about Stram's speculation at the Packers' Santa Barbara training site, coach Vince Lombardi

Foot-And-Mouth-Disease Man Goes Sick Again With Fever

LONDON (AP)—Bob Brewis, 24-year-old farmhand who "was" moken ago became the first human known to catch foot and mouth disease in Britain, is sick again.

A Conservative member of Parliament immediately demanded a government inquiry into why Brewis had been allowed to mix freely with other people.

Brewis was infected in November at his brother's farm in Northumberland, a county in northern England that lost £1-000,000 $3,000,000 worth of animals to the disease last year.

Brewis was in hospital for a week and treated for "slight fever." Tests made at the hospital were forwarded to a special laboratory, and officials said the samples definitely revealed foot and mouth disease.

Brewis was pronounced well and allowed to go back to work. Later he moved to another farm and there he apparently suffered a relapse or contracted the disease a second time.

ORDERED INDOORS

"Blisters have appeared again on my tongue and right hand," he told reporters. "The doctor has ordered me to stay indoors."

Beatle music is back again after two years of official condemnation.

President Sukarno, whose absolute rule over the nation was broken by Gen. Suharto's military forces last summer, earlier banned Beatle music, "destructive Western dances, and cultural imperialism."

Now the floodgates are open again.

Last weekend, pretty pop singer Lili Surjanti appeared on a state television program wearing a daring mini-skirt and sang the Beatle song I Want to Hold Your Hand.

She admitted her skirt was a good seven inches above her knee. Viewers thought it was even higher.

BIDDING QUIZ
 You have the following hand, neither side vulnerable:

♠ QJ74 ♥ 8 ♦ A92 ♣ K10983

1. You pass, your left hand opponent passes, your partner bids One Spade, and your right-hand opponent bids Two Clubs. What would you bid now?

2. Your partner bids One No-trump, and your right-hand opponent bids Two Hearts. What would you bid now?

3. Your partner bids One No-trump, and your right-hand opponent bids Two Diamonds. What would you bid now?

4. Your partner bids One Heart. When you respond Two Clubs, he jumps to Four Clubs. What would you bid now?

1. Four spades. Of course you could double two clubs and beat it badly if that were the final contract, but there is almost no chance of LHO and your partner both passing two clubs doubled. The opponents are likely to discover a heart or a diamond. If you double, and it is better to try to prevent this from happening by jumping to four spades.

It would be wrong to bid only three spades, which partner can pass. It is hard to imagine four losers, once partner opens the bidding with a spade. Your hand takes on a new hue when he bids spades, and it actually becomes the equivalent of at least an opening bid.

2. Three hearts. Most players treat a bid of two spades or three clubs in this sequence as not forcing, and it is therefore necessary to make a bid certain to lead to game. You hope partner will bid three spades, in which case you will raise him to four. If his rebid is three no-trump, showing a double stopper in hearts, you pass. If his rebid is four clubs or diamonds, you raise him to five.

3. Double. Game is not certain, even opposite a no-trump, and the best thing to do is grab the sure profit. You will probably beat two diamonds two or three tricks, possibly more, if that becomes the final contract.

4. Four diamonds. A slam is clearly imminent, and the question is how or whether to reach it. The diamond bid shows first-round control and interest in a slam; if you wanted only a game, you would bid five clubs over four.

The next step is up to partner. If he cooperates by bidding four spades or four no-trump, you are on the way to six or seven, but if all he does is bid five clubs, you must give up because of the probability of losing two spade tricks.

Personal matters will be governed by generally good influences during the year ahead, with romance favored in late April, late June and late July; travel and stimulating social activities in late April (an all-around good period), June and August. If you are careful to avoid friction in June and mid-November, domestic relationships should prove most harmonious.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a charming personality and many talents, but will have to curb a tendency toward extremism.

There are indications of some opportunities for financial gain in mid-March, late April, mid-May and August, but it will be in all matters on Saturday. You may experience a tendency to scatter energies, to go off on tangents not pertinent to your best interests. Curb such inclinations and avoid the carelessness that could lead to needless errors.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
 If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates some challenging business and/or job situations during the next few months. However, with patience and determination, you should be able to turn them to your advantage and find yourself, by late 1967, not only in far better position than you may be at the present, but ready to move forward at a more progressive pace early in 1968. Some unexpected recognition of your talents in early May and/or mid-September could turn the tide.

Treatment Of Aches Varies On Where You Are In Asia

NEW YORK (AP)—A swing through Asia discloses a tremendous variety of native treatments for anyone seized by aches and pains.

In Vietnam there are simple remedies such as two fingers to be used for pinching, an empty peanut butter jar or glass tumbler plus a candle, or a coin held between thumb and forefinger.

In India, there are thousands of practitioners of ancient Ayurvedic and Unani medicine, of yoga and homeopathy. All have many patients.

In both countries, and elsewhere, there are faithful adherents of acupuncture—sticking of pins into the flesh in certain precise patterns to cure varying ailments.

In Vietnam, it is not uncommon to see men or women with bruise marks on their throats, the bridge of the nose, or at the sides of their eyes—bruises produced by pinching the skin repeatedly or by having a friend perform the pinching for you.

The idea is to draw out the pain where it seems to be localized from sore throat or headache. Scratching lines on the chest or back or other parts of the body with a metal coin is based on the same concept.

DRAWN BY HEAT And so is the practice of cupping. The inside of a glass jar or tumbler is heated with a candle and then the tumbler is placed open-end down on the skin. Suction is created as the air cools within the glass. Capillaries break down, leaving a circular bruise on the skin. Many cups may be used in case of generalized pain, or flu. Western-trained doctors are doubtful that the bruising and marking really can do any good, other than psychological, but many Vietnamese think it works. Besides, the country has few trained doctors.

India, with a 500,000,000 population, is relying on both old and new systems of medicine to look after the health needs of her people.

Acupuncture medicine is being encouraged. Here the concept is of treating disease with drugs that produce similar symptoms as does the disease itself.

The Unani or Moslem school of medicine relies mainly on herbs and plants. So also to a large extent does Ayurveda, India's ancient science of life medicine that was flourishing 4,000 to 5,000 years ago. It was brought to a remarkably intelligent stage of observation and development during an 800-year period between 600 BC and 200 AD.

Ayurvedic medicine flowered in both medical and some indigenous aids in surgery. One practice used large black ants to bite the edges of a wound or perforation with their jaws, while their heads were chopped off to make their bites permanent. This was a forerunner of soluble thread or sutures.

Judy's Back In Capital With Request From PM

OTTAWA (CP)—Judy's back in town and the prime minister may want to see her.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh was away from the capital a week on a western trip on Centennial and other business.

It fell to Prime Minister Pearson to field opposition queries in the Commons about the activities of the only woman member of the cabinet.

Mr. Pearson did his best to answer, but sometimes escaped by telling questioners that it would have to wait until the ebullient Judy returns.

She came back Thursday, but not in time to take her seat in the Commons during question period when the prime minister got two more pointed queries.

After the last one, he said with a smile it would go on his agenda of discussion with Miss LaMarsh.

What made the prime minister's task more difficult is Miss LaMarsh's knack for trouble. She's a "hot-water" minister, saying the controversial when the mundane would do.

Her weekend comment to reporters in British Columbia about Walter Gordon's return to the cabinet was typical. She called Mr. Gordon the "glue" that kept the cabinet together.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker needed Mr. Pearson on that one by solemnly asking whether her statement was government policy.

All the prime minister could do was say that Miss LaMarsh would deal with the question on her return. Mr. Diefenbaker got the triumphant last word: "It's a pretty sticky question."

There were also questions about the Edmonton speech Miss LaMarsh delivered on government plans for a new national holiday this year—but not on the birthday of Sir John A. Macdonald, the first prime minister.

She didn't say when it would be, which led David Macdonald (PC Prince) to ask whether it would be Feb. 15, the second anniversary of the flying of the new national flag. On to the agenda.

CONSIDERS REQUEST

Earlier in the week, Mr. Pearson told NDP Leader Douglas the cabinet would again consider a request from a woman's group for a royal commission on equal rights for women when Miss LaMarsh returned.

Mr. Pearson also advised Michael Forrestall (PC-Halifax) he would consult with Miss LaMarsh when she got back about his query on the status of a Canadian Youth Council report on the holding of a Centennial youth seminar.

The prime minister may also want to talk to her about a replacement for CBC President Alphonse Ouimet, expected to step down this year.

Banker Warns On Proposal For Deposit Insurance Bill

MONTREAL (CP)—W. Earl McLaughlin, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said today the government's proposed deposit insurance bill will force chartered banks to "subsidize their competition."

He told the bank's annual meeting the bill, part of amendments to the Bank Act now before the House of Commons, will impose compulsory insurance "on the very institutions that need it least."

"The safety of chartered banks is unquestioned. The major effect of imposing deposit insurance on the chartered banks will be, not to increase protection for their depositors but to force the banks to subsidize their competitors—the federally and provincially chartered near-banks."

It might also tell the world that the strength of Canadian banks has diminished to such an extent that it must be buoyed up by deposit insurance.

Mr. McLaughlin said the real problem is not insurance, but the lack of regulation and inspection of near-banks—a term used to describe such institutions as credit unions and trust and loan companies.

"The banks already have excellent regulation and inspection. Those near-banks that really need deposit insurance will in no way be helped unless deposit insurance is accompanied by the kind of regulation and inspection that should make insurance unnecessary."

He said he favors a purely voluntary federal plan of insurance open to all deposit-taking institutions with rigorous regulation and inspection.

The government's proposed bill provides for compulsory insurance of deposits in all federally-chartered institutions, including the chartered banks and voluntary insurance for provincially-chartered institutions with the approval of the provincial governments concerned.

Mr. McLaughlin was critical of proposed amendments which would restrict Canadian banks owned by foreign banks. Such institutions would have to restrict total liabilities to a figure not exceeding 20 times their authorized capital.

SEES LITTLE DANGER

He said there appears to be little danger of these foreign-owned banks actually weakening Canadian monetary policy.

"The argument seems to be that, in times of tight money in Canada, parent banks abroad might pour funds into their Canadian subsidiaries and so defeat the policy of monetary restraint."

"This argument, of course, is wrong."

The size of the Canadian money supply was controlled by the Bank of Canada and foreign-owned banks would have to obtain a larger share of the existing Canadian money supply to expand their Canadian operations.

J. H. Coleman, vice-president and chief general manager of the bank, told the annual meeting that economic prospects for Canada in 1967 appear good.

"There is still strength in the economy, both internally and in export markets, and increased US expenditures in Vietnam could stimulate an already strong export position."

Any slight falling in the company could be readily offset by some easing in present fiscal and monetary restraints.

"Any easing that does come will release funds to relieve existing backlogs of demand in such areas as housing and automobiles, a driving up of mortgage funds and other long and intermediate-term credit has led to some postponement of expenditures."

BOOM DIVES

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Building inspector Ed Neff said Thursday that the Prince George construction industry built $4,000,000 worth in property last year than it did during 1965. He said the total value of built-up permits issued during 1966 was approximately $23,000,000, a 40 per cent increase over the $16,500,000 of the previous year.

BLUE FASHION FOR MINI-KNEES

LONDON (AP)—Girls wearing mini-skirts are getting blue knees in Britain's first big freeze of 1967. More than 100 in high-high skirts walked out of classes at Reading College of Technology near London Monday.

Explained one fashionable but freezing young lady: "We girls in mini-skirts found our knees and legs turning blue."

College authorities said a shortage of stockings in the boiler rooms cut the central heating system to quarter power.

CHARGE LAID

FORT ST. JOHN (CP)—A charge of attempted murder Wednesday against Clayton George William Bechem following a shooting incident at Montney, 24 miles west of here, in which a man was injured by flying glass and steel splinters. Frederick Goodings of Fort St. John was injured when a rifle bullet smashed through the windshield of his truck. Bechem was to appear in court today.

DRAFT ABOLISHED

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters)—Luxembourg, which contributes an army of 1,800 draftees and 500 volunteers to NATO, will abolish the draft, Prime Minister Pierre Werner said Tuesday.

AROUND B.C.

No Fur Coat On New Mayor

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Tom Campbell said Wednesday he will not wear the mayor's traditional scarlet and black fur-trimmed robes at regular council sessions, a feature at City Hall since 1936. "I'm not going to a coronation," said the new mayor. "In our family my wife wears the fur—not me."

NEW SYSTEM

PENTICTON (CP)—Judge A. D. C. Washington of Yale County said Thursday his court will start hearing criminal cases in March normally heard by the B.C. Supreme Court in a new system designed to bring speedier procedures in administration of justice. The plan was approved recently by the provincial attorney-general's department.

NO SUPPORT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bess St. Elor, president of the Building Trades Union Council, said Thursday construction unions will not support their employers' demand for relaxation of the provincial ban on overtime. He said the unions will be arguing for a shorter work week when they go to the bargaining table later this year and therefore cannot support the principle of overtime.

FACES TRIAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Cecil Fine McDonald, 51, charged with the shooting wounding of Ronald Milne last Oct. 11, was committed for trial on a warrant charging him with the wounding of a preliminary hearing in magistrate's court Thursday. Milne was shot in the left leg in the incident.

DUMP IS ATTRACTION

POWELL RIVER (CP)—Town council Thursday agreed to place a garbage dump back from a residential area, but residents of the area say they aren't satisfied with council's actions. The dump attracts seagulls, which swamp rooftops with droppings and residents want the dump filled in. "They stink horribly," said one ratepayers.

Search For Five Seamen Ended In Georgia Straits

VANCOUVER (CP)—An unsuccessful air-sea search for survivors of the 66-foot tug Gulf Master which sank with five crew members aboard ended Thursday night.

As the last search boats made their way into Vancouver harbor from the wind-whipped Georgia Straits, officials announced that two separate investigations will be held into the Wednesday night marine accident.

The federal transport department ordered an inquiry under the supervision of Captain Cyril Burrill, port warden and supervising examiner of masters and mates.

The Canadian Merchant Service Guild, which represents all commercial ships' officers except those involved in the fishing industry, announced it has formed a committee to investigate the Gulf Master sinking and several similar sinkings involving tugboats along the B.C. coast in recent years.

The guild also appealed to Transport Minister Pickersgill to order a full-scale inquiry into the seaworthiness of steel-hulled tugs and federal laws governing inspection of such vessels.

Guid members say that tugs under 15 tons escape inspection under existing legislation.

PASSED BY INSPECTOR

Cecil Cosulich, president of Rivtow Marine Ltd. of Vancouver, owners of the Gulf Master, said the tug had been passed by a transport department inspector.

"She had a seasoned crew and more safety equipment than was needed," Mr. Cosulich said. "I just don't know what could have happened."

At Sechart, 30 miles northwest of Vancouver, Coroner Eric Patkau and a jury viewed the body of crewman Rodney Seymour, 23, who was plucked from the water shortly after the Gulf Master went down.

Seymour died later in a Sechart hospital. The jury adjourned indefinitely.

The tug went down in 450 feet of water two miles off Sechart. Missing and presumed drowned were skipper Forrest Anderson, 30, of Coquitlam B.C.; engineer Richard McPhail, 61, of North Vancouver; Boyle Ayotte, a 22-year-old deckhand from North Vancouver and another deckhand, Edward Pierri of Montreal.

Canada, India And Poland Work To Gain Peace Talks

NEW DELHI (CP)—India, Canada and Poland are engaged in active negotiations to bring the Vietnam conflict to the conference table, diplomatic sources said here today.

The sources said that the talks, which began a month ago on India's initiative, took a more positive turn last week after the interview given by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong to Harrison Salisbury, New York Times correspondent, and statements made in Paris by North Vietnamese envoy Mai Van Bo.

The three countries are working through the International Control Commission, of which are all members, to bring about a conference, the sources said.

Indian Foreign Minister Mohammed Chagla hinted Wednesday that the time was ripe for Washington to establish contact with North Vietnam when he said: "All the recent trends indicate that North Vietnam has given a signal."

In an interview with a local press agency, Chagla referred to recent statements by Dong and Bo. He said: "It is absurd to expect anything more positive by way of a response from North Vietnam."

He said he was sure that "something would emerge" if the United States put an unconditional end to the bombings of North Vietnam.

These diplomatic reports coupled with Chagla's statements appeared to be linked with statements made in Ottawa Wednesday by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, who said that talks were at present going on between Canada and other countries with a view to peace negotiations.

The North Vietnamese premier in his interview with Salisbury stressed that North Viet-nam's four points for a Vietnam settlement were not to be considered as pre-conditions for peace talks. Previously, Hanoi had insisted that its four points were pre-conditions to such talks. One of the main points is complete withdrawal of U.S. and other foreign forces from Vietnam.

Bo said in Paris Jan. 5 that if the U.S. finally and unconditionally halted its bombing of North Vietnam, then the Hanoi government would study any American proposal to make contact with it.

Salisbury himself said in an interview in Hong Kong Wednesday that he believes the statements of Dong and Bo were made with the "full sanction and advance knowledge" of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh.

A Long Struggle Preluded
Zanuck's 'The Longest Day'

NEW YORK (AP)—Darryl F. Zanuck found himself up against the Wall Street-dominated board of directors of 20th Century-Fox when he was working in 1961 on his war epic, The Longest Day.

He had to present his script and budget for approval, and the directors were reluctant to okay his production estimate of $5,000,000, plus overhead that might add another million.

"I was in the army and I don't like war pictures," snapped one director.

The board finally approved the film but insisted that big-name stars be included in the cast for boxoffice insurance.

Zanuck agreed. By May, 1962, he had finished most of the photography on The Longest Day. He was pleased with it. He recognized the movie as his one great chance to regain the $4,000,000 losses of his previous independent film and to redeem his reputation as a movie maker.

But he was worried about how 20th Century-Fox would release The Longest Day, which by now had cost $8,000,000. The company was still pouring millions into Cleopatra and was in the process of losing $50,000,000 in a two-year period. It was taking desperate measures to avoid insolvency.

"Fox is liable to sell off The Longest Day fast to get money coming in," Zanuck was told by his adviser, lawyer Arnold Grant. He suggested hiring of Zanuck's own salesmen to oversee 20th-Fox's deals with theatres, so the company would go for long-range profit, rather than a quick buck. Zanuck agreed.

In May of 1962, Spyros Skouras was re-elected president of 20th Century-Fox, though he had undergone surgery and appeared to be losing power to other board members. Samuel Rosenman, a major adviser to president Franklin D. Roosevelt, became chairman.

Zanuck went to Rosenman with his proposal for an independent sales force to handle The Longest Day. Rosenman rejected the suggestion, and then indicated that he had another appointment.

As he left the meeting Zanuck's temper flared. He said to Grant: "I'm going back."

HURLS GAUNTLET

On June 28, 1962, Zanuck hurled the gauntlet. He issued a press statement declaring that the 20th Century-Fox board and its executive committee had taken over running the company and most members "have had no experience in the motion picture industry."

What the company needed, he said, was "a new president . . . new policy . . . complete reorganization of every department and branch."

Zanuck concluded: "I have been inaudible for entirely too long. Now, as the largest single individual stockholder, I intend to make my position clear on all major matters."

She Has Dancing Awards
Now Bagpipes Is Her Aim

She won a gold and a silver medal in the annual Highland dancing competitions at the Gaelic College of Celtic Folk Arts in Nova Scotia. Her ambition is to learn to play the bagpipes.

Her name is Cathy Kochanski.

The 15-year-old Grade 10 student at Regina's Thom Collegiate donned her first kilt shortly after she was captivated by a Scottish performance she watched in Calgary.

She began entering competitions in Moose Jaw, Sask., and Saskatoon in 1959 and soon attracted the attention of James L. MacKenzie of Aberdeen, an examiner for the Scottish Dance Teachers Association and a world champion Highland dancer.

He became her trainer and she was enrolled in an advanced course at the Gaelic College in Nova Scotia.

Cathy's two Nova Scotia medals boosted her collection to five gold, two second-place silver, four third-place bronze and three medals from Scotland—the amateur Highland gold medal and another silver and bronze.

Apart from her dancing, Cathy is a cheerleader and enjoys sewing and helping her mother—she is an adopted child—with girl guide work.

The talented brunette is uncertain about her future. But she hopes to win her gold and double-gold bar before she retires from competition. Then she plans to pursue a part-time career as a dance teacher.

Ian Campbell, a 15-year-old Grade 10 student at St. Peter's high school in Dartmouth, N.S., has rebuilt a Second World War Ship's radio receiver and now is working on a transmitter because it's "more fun than buying it from a store."

"It takes a lot of work but is worth it in the end," he says. "You have more pride in something you build and make work yourself."

Ian is the proud possessor of a ham radio operator's licence and holds a proficiency certificate from the transport department for knowledge of ham radio procedures and equipment.

High school dropouts in Hamilton who perhaps didn't get along with their teachers now can try an electronic teaching system for $2.50 an hour.

The Automated Training Centre combines audio-visual methods with a t o m a t e d teaching aids, conference telephone hookups and specialists in various subjects to give students a chance to learn at a speed geared to their own ability.

The school's electronic Autotutors flash a programmed course of study on a small screen. The student can proceed at his own pace, bring up each question by pushing a button. If he then pushes the wrong answer-button, the screen tells him where he has erred, and he has another try.

Livia Neumann, director of the school, says a variety of courses are available including mathematics, business skills, languages, reading and electronics.

"The courses will be a real help to immigrants, in teaching them to read and speak English or other languages, and to both teen-agers and adults who want to upgrade their education."

"Dropouts from school, who might have had problems there, may find the pace of the lessons, geared to their own individual learning speed, a big help."

Languages are taught through the Teletutor—a phone hookup that allows up to 10 students at time to listen and talk at home while a language expert coaches them.

Students using the Autotutor pay $2.50 an hour. A special 104-hour career course costs $199 but if the student hasn't finished in the allotted time he can continue without further charge. Should he finish before the 104 hours are up he can use the remaining time on another course.

Glenn Ford Target Of Viet Cong Fire

SAIGON (AP)—Hollywood star Glenn Ford has been exposed to enemy sniper fire twice while observing U.S. marine operations in the Mekong Delta. Ford, a reserve navy commander, is in South Vietnam on active duty and will make documentary films for the marines. He was born in Portneuf, Que. The navy said Ford was riding in a gunship helicopter Tuesday when it drew several rounds of Viet Cong fire. No one was hurt.

LIZ ARRIVES

Film actress Elizabeth Taylor, in boots and miniskirt, holds her pet poodle on a leash at the airport at Lagos, Nigeria, during a stopover. She then boarded a chartered plane for neighboring Dahomey where she and her husband, Richard Burton, are to film Graham Greene's 'The Comedians'. Others in the picture are not identified.

He Met Music Deadline, Just

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Composer Maurice Jarre met another deadline last month, as is his custom.

The amazing Frenchman recorded the final cadenza for the MGM auto racing spectacle, Grand Prix, a few days before the film received its premiere in Hollywood.

"This has been a crazy year," he said. "I have written five complete scores—Gambit, The Professionals, Is Paris Burning, Night of The Generals and Grand Prix. I also composed a long ballet on The Hunchback of Notre Dame for the Paris opera.

"Now I think I would like to rest for six months. The only trouble is that after a week's rest, I am anxious to get back to work."

On the basis of one score alone, Jarre doesn't need to work for a long time. His compositions for Doctor Zhivago have become the all-time top seller for the score of a dramatic film, dominating album sales all year with a total of 1,000,000 copies sold. That, too, was a hurry-up job.

"I spent two months on the location in Spain, which helped me get the atmosphere and feeling of the film," he said. "But the actual composition and scoring took place in six weeks as David Lean was putting Zhivago together for the premiere."

Jarre has come a long way for a lad who never played an instrument until he was 16. Young Maurice listened to his sister's piano lessons in their Paris home and decided he would seek a career in music rather than engineering.

Reports Conflict Of Sophia's Baby

ROME (AP)—Conflicting reports on the fate of Sophia Loren's unborn baby continue today.

Some Italian newspapers said fears of a miscarriage had proved unwarranted. Others splashed front-page stories saying the film star had lost the child expected in May and that her physical and emotional condition was causing concern.

An Italian weekly magazine appearing today made over its cover page to carry a picture of Miss Loren with a caption saying she lost the child Wednesday morning.

There still was no confirmation or denial from Miss Loren's doctors or her family.

Reports of a miscarriage or that Miss Loren might be about to lose the baby were published after her doctor spent Tuesday night at the clinic where she is under treatment.

Impresario Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Felix G. Gerstman, 68, theatrical impresario, died Wednesday. Among artists whom he presented in concerts were Renata Tebaldi, Joan Sutherland, David Oistrakh, Van Cliburn, Barry Belafonte, Judy Garland, Josephine Baker and Mary Martin.

SEEKS EASTERN CLUES

Centennial Play Suffers
Rough Critical Treatment

OTTAWA (CP)—Theatre critics gave The Centennial Play a rough reception Wednesday night and the author-in-chief said he was staggered by the premiere performance.

Of the five authors, only Robertson Davies attended the premiere, and he left the reception that followed without speaking to director Peter Boretski.

He complained in an interview that Boretski had done "everything from tampering to completely rewriting" the series of regional sketches.

"Boretski has no feeling for the spoken word," said the playwright. "He seemed to despise the material he worked with."

At the other end of a room filled with the black-tie audience of 500 that attended the opening, director Boretski denied rewriting the play but said it was heavily cut "so we got the essence rather than the verbiage."

55 STAGED PRODUCTION

An amateur cast of 55 Ottawa Little Theatre players presented the $35,000 production, which is being paid for by the federal government.

Centennial officials said it was written for amateur troupes and 60 have asked for the script. It will be distributed without cost.

The writers were Davies, who co-ordinated the work, Halifax surgeon-playwright Arthur Murphy, Yves Theriault of Montreal, W. O. Mitchell of High River, Alta., and Eric Nicol of Vancouver.

Audrey Ashley of the Ottawa Citizen said that aside from "a uniform level of dullness" the script lacked unity.

Martial Dassyva of Montreal La Presse found it a "bastardized, hybrid, bloodless" work that reminded him of a college revue.

Ron Evans of the Toronto Telegram called the play a bomb.

Herb Whittaker of the Toronto Globe and Mail found Dr. Murphy's pre-Confederation debate between Nova Scotians Joseph Howe and Sir Charles Tupper "uninteresting" and Nicol's B.C. saloon satire "flat."

Mitchell's "gullible westerners listening first to a medicine man, then a rain-maker, finally a seller of genuine gopher tails" smacked more of Oklahoma than of Saskatchewan, he said.

PARTS DREW LAUGHTER

Both the Ontario and Quebec sections drew some laughter from the audience and some good words from the critics.

Whittaker noted that only the "lively" Quebec scene lacked period costumes. It had actress Charlotte Gobeil in platinum hair and silver mini-dress telling Canada "to recognize its most swinging province."

Robertson Davies scene in a 1912 Ontario school room with a huge Union Jack "won some genuine laughter." The accent was on arithmetic and the evils of alcohol.

Davies himself reacted grimly to the satirical interpretation and said that wasn't his intent at all.

"The director treated us like incompetents," he said.

International Renown Fails
To Make Her Star In Own Town

TORONTO (CP) — Actress Kate Reid says sadly that international success hasn't made her a sought-after star in her own home-town.

Despite Broadway hits in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf and Dylan and star billing in Hollywood's This Property is Condemned, she hasn't had a single genuine offer to appear in a Toronto production in five years.

The fact that the 36-year-old actress appeared at the Playhouse Theatre here in mid-December in The Subject is Koses doesn't count. Koses is a production from Ottawa where it ran with great success.

She accepted the Ottawa offer "just because they asked me." Winnipeg, Charlottetown and the Stratford Festival asked, too, and she was delighted to accept.

But not Toronto. "I really want to work here."

Miss Reid's main problem in Toronto, she says, is "the fallacy that once you've done well somewhere else like Broadway you'll outpace yourself."

"In my case that simply isn't true. I'll take what the traffic will bear, of course, but I don't hold people up. I don't act for monetary reasons."

Kate Reid says finding work is no problem. Right now her main worry is trying to choose among various stage, television and movie offers.

Among them is one from an English producer. "Perhaps I should go to England. I haven't been there for seven or eight years."

But there are other plays, other TV offers from Hollywood and a chance to do a film in Canada.

"It's so hard to decide," she says, admitting that the failure of her latest Broadway venture, Tennessee Williams' Slapstick Comedy, unnerved her.

"I really wanted to do that. It was gone in a week. But then most Broadway actors go through this all the time. They're lucky to have a hit once every five years. I had two in four years."

Despite the theatrical cold shoulder she receives here, Toronto has remained home. "I like it here and I want to be with my children."

Reid, 11, Robin, 8, two dogs, two cats and a large, comfortable home in fashionable Rosedale are Miss Reid's element.

"We used to live in rented places but it simply wasn't any good for the children. Children should have a place where they know where their toys and books are."

Except for the 10-month Broadway run of Dylan, she has always committed to Toronto whenever she was working. "I guess it would have been easier to live in New York but I just dread flying back and forth. The reason I've stayed is the house."

And how does she propose to break into the Toronto theatre world again? "I'll probably leave to go somewhere else and build myself up again first."

As Jacket Coates well knew, all that an old sweat needed to beat the army system was a humble and contrite spirit exhibited on suitable occasions. To a veteran in the art of snagging the cushy job, in beating the raps and just getting along, the last thing in the world he wants is to be a hero. He doesn't want promotion.

The last thing in the world that Jacket Coates wanted happened—he won the Military Medal, in Korea. The private, comfortable war of Private Jacket Coates was ruined. He was a hero. Promotion was imminent. Marriage and a settled life threatened.

Lively, hilarious, perhaps a wee bit bawdy here and there, The Private War of Jacket Coates (Longmans) is the down-to-earth story of a Second World War veteran of the Canadian Army who joined Canada's Special Force for the Korean War, not from a sense of patriotism but from economic necessity. He sets out in matter-of-fact fashion to do his bit in as easy a manner as possible. He succeeded, too. What happened to Jacket Coates really wasn't his fault.

Author Lt. Col. Herbert Fairlie Wood knows his army and his men. He's been in it for 25 years, throughout the war and in Korea as officer commanding the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. The adaptability, the cheerful disregard for regulations, of the Canadian soldier prompted the book, one of the better ones to come out of the Canadian or any other army.

Christilot Hanson had barely finished high school when she was competing against adult veterans at the Tokyo Olympics in 1964 as Canada's representative in the dressage and became an equestrian celebrity overnight. She tells the story of the strains and trials, the loneliness and exhaustion, of training for the Olympics in an autobiography, Canadian Entry (Clarke, Irwin).

An integral part of the story of this 19-year-old Toronto girl is Bonheur, her special horse she rode at Tokyo.

The Haida Indians once ranged up and down Canada's west coast, a proud and cultured race, lords of all they surveyed.

The coming of the white man in 1775 ended that and in 150 years the Haida culture was gone. The Iron Men, as the Haidas termed the whites, had great ships, firearms and brutal strength on their side.

The decline of the Haidas is feelingly told in Raven's Cry (McClelland and Stewart), by Christie Harris of Victoria and Vancouver. Her studies took her to the Queen Charlotte Islands of British Columbia's north coast and to other places where the Haidas once roamed. She received a Canada Council grant to do the research.

Rat Patrol Crashes

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"By all rights, we should be dead," said Christopher George, star of the desert war television series, The Rat Patrol.

"It's a miracle we aren't," agrees co-star Gaby Raymond. They and another actor in the series, Justin Tarr, are survivors of a jeep accident that might well have been the end of their careers, as well as Rat Patrol.

It happened last week on a dry lake bed at Rosamond, Calif. The company was shooting a scene in which Tarr drove a jeep around a wrecked German half-track during a battle. George was seated beside Tarr, and Raymond stood on the rear with a mounted gun.

"The whole thing happened as if in slow motion," recalled George. "I could feel the right side of the jeep lifting, and began to think we were going to roll over."

"I thought Gary could probably leap clear, since he was on the back. I looked over at Justin and guessed he would get killed, and probably I would, too."

"The jeep flipped up and over and then started to come down on us. I said to myself, 'This is it.' But the jeep didn't come all the way down. The gun mount on the back had acted as a roll bar."

Raymond, the British member of the cast, had jumped as the jeep started to roll. He lay on the ground with a broken ankle. Crew members rushed over to lift the jeep from the other two actors, who were pinned under it. George seemed to be the most seriously hurt; Tarr had escaped with only an injured arm.

All were taken to a desert hospital, and it was feared that George might have suffered a fractured skull and broken vertebra.

"Now it appears that I had a concussion, tore something in my neck and may have a hair-line fracture of the vertebra," said George at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Hollywood. "I also had abrasions all over my body."

The future plans of Rat Patrol depend on his recovery. Something will have to be done within a month or so. The series has enough backlog to extend only into March.

MOVIE highlights

A suspense drama and a comedy on art forgery are the two films slated for the Paramount Theatre next week.

Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 16, 17 See You In Hell Darling will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. Originally released under the title An American Dream, the story is based on a best seller by Norman Mailer.

Wednesday to Saturday, Jan. 18, 19, 20, 21, How To Steal A Million is scheduled for 7 and 9:15 p.m. nightly and for the Saturday matinee at 2 p.m.

The Saturday matinee will also show the first chapter of The Lost Planet, adventures in outer space.

See You In Hell Darling is a hard-hitting chronicle of a murderously ambitious ex-war hero whose plans are subverted by his powerful attraction to beautiful but undependable women. Stephen Rojack, played by Stuart Whitman, is the man in question. Having risen to a position of prominence as a muck-raking television commentator, he is determined to have his own way regardless of whoever or whatever may be in his way.

Three-time Academy Award nominee Eleanor Parker brings all of her widely acknowledged acting skill to bear in the difficult role of Rojack's tempestuous, rough-living wife, Deborah. Although the Rojacks are separated, Deborah heatedly refuses to grant Stephen a divorce, which he has come to her apartment to seek agreement on.

Following a stormy romantic interlude with Deborah's sultry German maid, Ruta, portrayed by sexy Susan Denberg, Rojack returns to find his wife waiting, bottle in hand, to renew the argument.

During the ensuing fierce battle, Rojack pushes his wife to her death on the street 30 floors below. With his career now in jeopardy, he seeks consolation from Cherry, a seductive but highly perfidious gangster's girl.

Janet Leigh, concentrates her talents on the pivotal part of the torrid nightclub singer whose underworld associates are after Rojack's neck because of his revelations about them on his television show. Although she professes to love him, Cherry turns Rojack over to her vindictive friends. The result is a face-to-face gun duel to the death.

How To Steal A Million stars Audrey Hepburn and Peter O'Toole and co-stars Eli Wallach and Hugh Griffith, with a special guest appearance by Charles Boyer.

The story is one of a comedy on art forgery and the chic world of fashion. Paris is the site for filming. Miss Hepburn plays the part of Nicole, the daughter of a virtuoso forger, portrayed by Hugh Griffith. She regrets his life of crime, but she loves him dearly and only hopes he will not get into too much trouble.

Peter O'Toole, as Simon Dermott, enters her life when she captures him as a suspected burglar in her father's mansion. She discovers his true identity later.

For the film, producer Kohlmarr and director Wyler needed some 70 canvases and 12 pieces of sculpture, all by the world's leading artists, including Renoir, Van Gogh, Cezanne and others. The trouble was however, that the masterpieces had to be forgeries—so realistic that they could pass for the genuine articles.

So early last year, behind padlocked doors at the Studios de Boulogne, just outside Paris, seven of the Continent's finest artists began their work. By year's end they had what has been called "the greatest collection of art forgeries in history." So realistic are the painting that Los Angeles experts who recently viewed them implored the studio never to let them out of their hands, or surely some day they would be passed as genuine articles.

Stars Plan No Smoking

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Resolutions to quit smoking head the list of picture peoples' good intentions for 1967.

Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Bea Benadaret and Bradford Dillman take the pledge, although Dillman confesses: "I make the same resolution every year."

Dick Clark quit in 1966 and intends "to remain cigaretteless in 1967." Dale Robertson, who has been swearing off annually, sounds a note of surrender: "I promise not to give up smoking." Robert Goulet plans to quit "at least six times."

Many resolutions are of lofty or noble intent.

Eva Gabor: "... To pay the boys in Vietnam a visit." Ditto Patricia Hart, Peter Fonda: "It may be a hopeless cause, but I resolve to do my damndest to help end the Vietnam war."

Joni James: "... Everything in my power to promote peace and understanding." Harry Belafonte: "Continue finding ways of linking all people closer together through music." Bob Denver: "I'm going to try and help teenagers more."

WILL MAKE IT UP

Sammy Davis Jr.: "If I hurt or offended anyone unconsciously in 1966, I resolve to make it up to one and all."

Patu Page: "... Spend less time travelling and more with my husband and two children."

Jona Winters: "I resolve to say goodbye to all the goodies—ice cream, cake and candies."

Some resolutions are just gags:

Carolyn Jones: "... To cut down expenses. I shall no longer clean my diamonds in gin."

Dean Martin: "... to drink just a little more."

Canadian-born Lorne Greene,

Eli Wallach and Morey Amsterdam resolve to make no more resolutions.

Says Julie Andrews: "I'd rather not talk about mine. I have so many it would be impossible to live up to them."

SAIGON (AP) — Movie star Glenn Ford, wearing the uniform of a U.S. Navy commander, arrived in Saigon today on an assignment to make a film that "has nothing to do with show business whatsoever."

Ford, 50, a native of Port Neuf, Que., and a naval reserve commander, is on 30 days active duty. He said he will spend a few days in Saigon and then report to the U.S. Third Marine amphibious force at Da Nang.

He said he will make a documentary film of the marines' civic action and pacification programs.

"I'll get further orders in Da Nang," he said. "I expect I'll have a few classified things to do, too."

Ford served as an enlisted man in the Marine Corps from 1942-1945 and joined the naval reserve as an officer following the Second World War.

FM Fan-Fare

By Charles Patrick

Being a deadline presser last week with this column I didn't make it easy for the composing room boss. Decisions, decisions!

He apparently already had a pile up of abnormal post holiday problems relative to this section. So he finally decided I would have to become a face on the composing room floor instead of in the section.

I accept the blame for this dear reader and would like you to know that I get nothing but co-operation from the composing room of The Courier. Since June, 1965, we have only lost the race once before last week. So here's for beating future deadlines with a good margin!

At the risk of seeming to have a somewhat dated paragraph to follow, let me confess it is the opening paragraph from last week's column you didn't see. But, I feel that it is still a valid theme, so, we'll go from there to develop the program picture for the ensuing week. Meanwhile consider this thinking as reflected in the following quote from last week's effort:

"So you are out of the Yuletide woods and the flat plain of the new year lies before you? It is possible you have decided to face the facts that you want to make your leisure time count? It's so easy to just fall into a favorite chair and just sit there and do nothing on winter evenings.

"But, who hasn't felt the pangs of conscience while indulging too often in this pastime. Perhaps you feel you should really do that reading or pursue that hobby or start or finish that home project which became bogged in as a theory. If you are in this bracket consider the following.

"The variable blend of CJOV-FM programs available every evening and all day on Sundays are companionable and enjoyable. They don't harness you to your chair. You can get up and walk around and take on something else and still be listening. They can even accelerate your productivity in many departments. But even if you do decide to just slob it out you'll find they're inspiring and not hypnotic. With this firmly in our minds let's glance at the ensuing week's highlights." (At this point we become up to date. End of last week's quote.)

NAUGHTY MARIETTA

For openers starting at 7 p.m. Swing Easy until 8 p.m. Monday to Friday is good light, bright easy listening. It's ideal fare to get rid of the dishes by or to get ready to go to meetings by. If you stay at home and are hungry for the latest news developments your appetite can be appeased by the World and Regional News resume at 8 to 8:10 p.m. each night.

Following the news, FM Variety Showcase varies in content Monday through Friday and offers 50 minutes of FM quality entertainment 'til 9 p.m. Tonight for example is Folk Song night with music to go with it on A World of Folk. At this time Monday evenings Gloria offers an alternating operetta favorite with staggered weeks being opera highlights. This coming Monday you'll enjoy The Red Mill and Naughty Marietta highlights by top performers. Tuesday you'll hear piano stylings of the modern arrangers from Shearing to Cabellero. Wednesday it's International Music reflecting a variety of continental capitals. Thursday evening at this time it's FM Star Time when a star vocalist and orchestra combine to present pleasant and modern hits of the show world.

VARIED SYMPHONIES

Symphony Hall is nightly at 9 'til 10 p.m. Monday to Friday. On Saturday it's at 7 to 8 p.m. Tonight's offering will be the music of Irving Fine played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra and featuring his Symphony 1962 plus his Serious Songs for Strings. On Saturday evenings the works of Brahms, Chopin, Tchaikovsky, Paderewski and Grieg will be heard performed by a special orchestra offering the best of these composers creations. Monday evening you'll hear Mozart's six quintette's for strings and viola with the Budapest String Quartet.

Tuesday evening pianist Byron Janus plays Rachmaninoff

Broadway Beginners' Luck All Topsy-Turvy This Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Beginners' luck is all topsy-turvy this Broadway season.

During the first half, a dozen hopefuls — more than the average number — won key roles. Four — again unusual — won exceptionally warm critical citations for skill in shows otherwise deemed lacking in general charm or appeal.

In contrast, two tyros appeared in box office successes that won them just so-so personal notices. Neither had ever performed on a stage before.

Most persistent newcomer of all was Lee Lawson, who reached Broadway in Agatha Sue, I Love You, which lasted just five performances. Miss Lawson, a tiny titan — tressed New Yorker of 24, was making her third try.

Two of this season's recruits, Mary Tyler Moore and Richard Chamberlain, suffered similar disappointment with the last-

Concerto One. The Chicago Symphony will also play Strauss' Burlesque. Dvorak's Slavonic Dances and Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture and Marche Slave is slated for Wednesday's Symphony Hall and performed by the Cleveland Symphony.

A special offering Sunday evening from 8 to 10 p.m. on Strings and Things will be the music of Aaron Copland, and Pierre Burton's rendering of Robert Service poems. Copland's Clarinet Concerto will be played by Benny Goodman accompanied by the Columbia Strings. Baritone William Warfield will sing famous American ballads. Comedy Star Time Tuesday at 4 to 5 and 10 to 11 feature a Victor Borge concert in depth.

FM Theatre at 4 to 5 and 10 to 11 p.m. Thursday features the original score from the TV series World War I and the musical, What Did You Do in the War?

For other basic programs consult the CJOV-FM schedule posted on this page.

minute cancellation of another musical, Breakfast at Tiffany's.

The oldest arrival, Gloria Foster, 28, continued honing a talent for sultry emotion in Yerma, a study in feminine frustration put on to a mixed reception by the Lincoln Centre Repertory Company. With the title role in Yerma she established herself as a coming star of impressive emotional range.

Youngest star was Heather Menzies, 16. She was chosen over hundreds of rivals for the ominous role in We Have Always Lived in the Castle. It ran nine performances. Born in Canada of Scottish parents, Miss Menzies learned about acting and dancing in Los Angeles where Robert Wise found her for The Sound of Music. After that she appeared in another film, Hawaii.

Perhaps the warmest notices of all were garnered by Bonnie Bedelia, 18, tackling the awesome challenge of a two-character study about racial conflict in the deep south, My Sweet Charlie. The general reaction was typified by a veteran actress who after the opening said, "she is my idea of a youthful wonder."

Another semi-rookie was Briton James Bolam, 25, who took part in an abortive British import, How's the World Treating You? Bolam made headway although his show did not.

SUMMER?

Just in case anyone's wondering what it's like in summery climes, take a look at these two beauties sunning themselves in high summer in Australia's Elwood Beach,

Melbourne. The two are sisters Val, 21, and Pam Orgill, 20.

He Looks Mod-Type Chap But He's Lots Of Talent

OTTAWA (CP) — Honored as one of Ottawa's outstanding young men, one of six literary figures to represent Canada at the 1965 Commonwealth Festival in Wales . . .

Father and author of four books of poetry, composer of a hit rock 'n' roll song, Dirty Shame . . .

This doesn't sound much like a young man who once wrote:

"Generally the past is more difficult than the future. And I don't know what I can say about my lack of either."

But at 25, versatile William Hawkins has accomplished all this.

To meet Hawkins in his blue jeans and suede jacket, with his long brown hair, Lord Dufferin mustache and steel-rimmed glasses, one would pass him off as a typical mod young man. But there is much more to him than meets the eye.

His career as a writer started when he joined The Canadian Press as a copy boy at the age of 16. "It seems, however, that I wasn't really suited to being a reporter, so the night editor suggested that I try writing poetry."

DIDN'T MAKE A CENT

Shortly after this he published his first volume of poetry, Shoot Low Sheriff, They're Riding Shetland Ponies.

"A friend and I combined to write this and we put out 300 copies. Within a year it was out of print.

"The disappointing part however, is that we later learned it was being put out in hard cover by a Toronto firm and selling at $4.50 a copy—and we didn't get a cent from it. Very disillusioning."

Since then he has published three other books of poetry, Louis Riel, in 1962, Hawkins, 1963, and Ottawa Poems, 1965.

"I guess the greatest influence of my writing was the summer I spent at the University of British Columbia studying under Olson and Ginsberg. Other poets have always been encouraging, especially Irving Layton.

"Of course, I have an incentive—hunger. But in Canada one can't expect to live by poetry. It's a doomed art form. That's why so many poets are turning to the music industry. And what would be more natural; after all, that's where it all started."

Hawkins, whose songs have been recorded by the Esquires, the Stormy Clovers and the Townsmen, also manages the Children, a well-known Ottawa rock 'n' roll group, and has started his own blues band, the Heavenly Blue.

"Rock 'n' roll is the strangest business I've ever encountered. I was first attracted to it by the great surge in its quality just before the Beatles. It attracts a large, enthusiastic audience which is great to play to, but for someone like me who only had experience with folk music, it's a real education."

Classical recordings, however, make up the largest part of Hawkins's collection. "I've stolen a lot from Bartok for my rock 'n' roll songs but that's all right since he stole them from Hungarian folk songs."

Writing is not a vocation for Bill Hawkins, it's an obsession.

"I often got up at three in the morning to write.

"The most common failing with writers is that they take themselves too seriously. The essence is in simplicity and directness. It's exceedingly hard to achieve this. People are just not prepared to take a simple statement; they expect the complicated."

At present he is working on a small collection of poems called Railroad Bill, which he hopes to get published in hard cover.

Success didn't come easily for Hawkins. He grew up in a tough Ottawa neighborhood and quit school early. He later put himself through this missed schooling. He first attracted attention with his poetry readings in Ottawa's first co'fee shop for the beat generation.

Now, his big dream is to make enough money out of rock 'n' roll to move to the Mediterranean with his pretty wife, Sheila, a school teacher, and their young son and daughter.

Mao Appears Slow In Film

BERLIN (AP)—Mao Tse-tung appeared infirm and slow in his movements in a five-month-old Communist Chinese film called The Red Guards, shown at West Berlin's Free University Wednesday night.

The 45-minute color film of a rally in Peking last August was obtained from the Chinese embassy in East Berlin. High points included speeches by Marshal Lin Biao, the defence minister and Mao's heir apparent, Premier Chou En-lai, and some surprisingly candid close-ups of Mao.

Mao had good coloring but he appeared to be infirm. Often he was held by the arms as he walked up and down stairs.

'Anti-Star' Paul Newman Opens A Beer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Reporters have been inclined to view Paul Newman in negative terms, as an "anti-star" who portrays "non-heroes," lives an unglamorous personal life and gives "non-interviews."

Yet, various polls show him as the most popular U.S. actor in films. As one of the most sought - after performers in films, he writes his own ticket, usually $750,000 and a cut of the profits.

How does Newman view Newman?

"Anti-stars?" he mused. "I don't know what that means. Define your terms."

An "anti-star" is an actor who achieves success but scorns the usual trappings: Lavish living, flamboyant personality, extroverted behavior.

Stars are supposed to wear stylish clothes and sip champagne. Newman favors T-shirts and beer.

EXPOUNDS VIEWS

Snapping the top from a can of lager, he expounded on his views of stardom:

"I've always rebelled against the idea that I occupied some kind of elevated position. I know a great many doctors and statesmen and scientists whose achievements are much more impressive than mine.

"These are men who have gone six, seven, eight years to college and have received advanced degrees in their fields. They are doing work that is important to mankind. Compare that with the work of an actor."

"I'm not ashamed of my work. But I've never felt that I should receive any exalted status because of it. If that's being an anti-star, make the most of it."

Polish Actor Leaps To Death

WARSAW (AP) — Arriving seconds late, Zbigniew Cybulski, Poland's most famous movie actor, leaped for the Warsaw express as it left the railway station at Wroclaw (Breslau) in west Poland Sunday. He fell to the track between two moving coaches and was fatally injured.

The Polish press agency said the 39-year-old actor died in hospital of head and chest injuries.

The accident recalled one of Cybulski's best-known roles in the Polish film The Train, in which he hung by his fingertips to the outside of a speeding express for minutes while he tried to get the attention of a girl passenger.

DIEFS JOIN SWINGIN' SET

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker made the rock 'n' roll scene Wednesday when he was presented with "swinging" records with such titles as Mustang Sally and You've Gotta Try.

The cool discs were produced by the Sir John A. Record Co., a new firm with a square label featuring a cartoon of that well-known long-hair Canadian, Sir John A. Macdonald.

The platters by Ottawa rock groups called Three Deuces, Teyes of Dawn and The Fifth Dimension were presented to Mr. Diefenbaker by John Poser, 25-year-old founder of the local firm.

"We have a square label, but the music is very 'with it,'" Mr. Poser told the opposition leader in his Parliament Hill office.

Mr. Diefenbaker stressed that he had not heard the records and that he was reserving his stand on rock 'n' roll. The presentation marked the 152nd anniversary of the birth of Canada's first prime minister after Confederation.
